Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Who's Stocking Stocking?

Q. I am allergic to nylon. A couple of years ago I bought some stockings made from a material called vectra. The store where I bought them no longer stocks them. Please help me locate some. Mrs. J.R., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE contacted the M. J. Fiber Co. in Maryland, which produces the vectra yarn. Frank Lyness, sales service manager, said the company stopped making vectra stockings about two years ago. ACTION LINE called several hosiery manufacturers, but could find none that made stockings in materials other than nylon, cotton or silk. Silk and cotton stockings can be purchased from Albert Hosiery Store, 305 Pine Ave., Long Beach.

Shape Up the Shore

Q. What is the Belmont Shore Improvement Association? I can't seem to find any information about it. Is it chartered by the state? What is its purpose? B. R.S., Long Beach.

A. The Belmont Shore Improvement Association, formed just over a year ago, is a chartered, non-profit group of Belmont Shore residents and property owners organized to "assure that the Shore remains a desirable place to live," according to Larry E. Schwartz, association president. "To be honest, we started out as a vigilante group of the ball bat type, but we've cooled down some now," he said. The initial objective of the association was to keep Belmont Shore from becoming a rowdy, area flooded with non-resident fun-seekers who might endanger the property or well-being of residents, Schwartz said. He credited the group with helping the Shore get better street lighting and more beach parking. Currently, he said, the 300 members are campaigning to influence absentee landlords to take better care of their property. Open to Shore property owners or residents of at least one year, the association will have its next meeting Jan. 26 at the Lions Club, 5107 E. Ocean Blvd., at which time new officers will be elected.

Landmark

Q. I have been intrigued by two large, silver eagles in front of an apartment building on Ocean Boulevard. Where did they come from? R.M., Long Beach.

A. Gladys Harris, owner of Hawarden Hall at 610 E. Ocean Blvd., said that her mother purchased the eagles at an auction some 50 years ago. "I understood the eagles came from an oil company building in downtown Los Angeles," she added.

Where's Bill?

Q. Is Billie Sol Estes in prison? If so, what was he finally convicted of? T.O., Chino, Calif.

A. The one-time Texas tycoon and promoter is serving a 15-year federal prison term for mail fraud and conspiracy along with a three year concurrent state term for swindling. He is in the federal prison at Sandstone, Minn., and will be eligible for parole in January, 1970, according to a recent news story. Estes has asked President Lyndon B. Johnson to commute his sentence. His petition is under consideration by the Justice Department. In the late 1950's and early 60's, Estes built a large financial empire in Texas on a multi-million dollar swindle. He sold bogus mortgages on fertilizer storage facilities that never existed. He was also involved in the misuse of cotton crop allotments and government grain storage payments. An editor of a semi-weekly newspaper in Pecos, Tex., first brought the swindling operations to light. The Estes scandal rocked Washington and Congress launched an investigation. An assistant secretary of labor resigned after admitting accepting a $1,000 gift from Estes and three high officials in the U.S. Department of Agriculture also resigned or were dismissed.

What's in a Number?

Q. We live in an unincorporated Los Angeles County area surrounded by the city of Compton. Although our mailing address is Compton, for one and a half blocks the numbers on our side of the street differ in series from the city numbers. Can anything be done to change our numbers to correspond with the city's? No one can ever find our house. L.P.I., Compton.

A. It would be impossible to change the numbers on your street alone, according to Howard Reece, head of the house numbering section of the County Engineers Department. Referring to your area as a county island, Reece said it would be necessary to circulate a petition and secure the signatures of all residents in your island before any number changes could be contemplated. Such a petition should be submitted to the County Engineers office, 108 W. Second St., Los Angeles. Reece explained that the county set up a uniform house numbering system in 1930, and that incorporated cities are encouraged but not required to adopt the county system.

Powell Fined $25,000, Regains Seat in House

Seniority Lost, May Fight Fine

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House, unable to forget and unwilling to forgive Adam Clayton Powell, let him have his old seat back Friday, but at a price — $25,000 in cash and 22 years in seniority.

He accepted the seat but wouldn't say if he would fight the terms in court.

Standing behind a railing and smoking a little cigar, Powell watched five hours of bitter wrangling as the 434 members who took their oaths earlier debated whether to let him take his.

By a climactic vote of 250 to 160, they decided to welcome him back but require him to pay $25,000 in equal monthly installments through the 24-month lifetime of the 91st Congress. And stripping away the privileges of seniority due a member of 22 years' standing, they accepted Powell back as its most junior member.

POWELL said he would confer with his lawyers before saying whether he would pay the $25,000 fine.

"Do you feel you're buying a seat?" he was asked.

"Well," he answered, drawing on his cigar, "maybe I'm an emancipated slave. It wouldn't be a bad idea if every congressman had to buy his seat."

He was asked if he would put his wife back on his House payroll — her being paid and not doing any work was one of the charges on which he was banished from the House in 1967.

"I haven't picked my staff yet," Powell replied.

"Do you feel chastened?"

"What?" Powell answered with a pained look. "Look, I'm seated. You gotta have heart."

"Do you plan to behave any different?"

"That's like asking me if I plan to stop beating my wife," he replied. "I'll behave the same as I always did."

THE HOUSE nearly tied itself in a parliamentary knot debating Powell's fate as its first order of business.

When it finally adopted the compromise plan, Powell strode into the well of the House — in front of the rostrum — and took the oath of office from House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass.

AFTER DEMO WHIP DEFEAT

Watch Out for Kennedy, Sen. Long Warns Nixon

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — Offering an assessment that was right on target, a dispirited Russell B. Long, his hands jammed deep into his pockets, looked at the floor and said, "I don't think I could have been beaten by anyone but Sen. Kennedy."

Members of the Senate leadership are rarely challenged — almost never successfully — and the idea of humiliating one of their brethren is a distasteful one to any senator.

Moreover, Long is a member, if a sometimes unpredictable one, of the club; has ample power as a committee chairman; and is a master of politics, Senate-style.

Yet, Kennedy beat Long for the post of assistant Senate Democratic leader, 31-26, Friday by more votes than Kennedy thought he had.

HIS victory paralleled a successful effort by liberal-minded Republicans to retain a voice in their party's policy making.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa.,

defeated, 23 to 20, an effort by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., supported by party conservatives, to gain the minority whip post vacated by the primary defeat of liberal Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif.

Both contests were decided by secret ballots in closed-party caucuses. The impact of each initially was more psychological than practical, since the whip seldom has exerted strong influence on policy making in the past.

Kennedy, last of the three brothers who have played significant roles in American politics, said his victory was not a personal one, but rather expressed the "sense of Democratic senators in favor of an aggressive and creative program in the upcoming Congress."

He said he did not believe defeat would diminish the effectiveness of Long, who will continue as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

LONG ATTRIBUTED his upset to the 36-year-old Massachusetts senator's popularity in the country at large. He said Kennedy had the benefit "of a strong organization put together to elect his brother John F. Kennedy president."

Said Long: "I would suggest that Mr. Nixon should be very careful and watch himself for the future, because in all probability he has a very able opponent ready for him."

The Louisiana senator said that Kennedy supporters in business, commerce and labor used their influence and "it changed a lot of votes."

It proved once again the Kennedy "magic" and the winning habit and was even more impressive because the Senate is a pretty pragmatic electorate.

The election proved Kennedy is a winner — even in a very tough arena — but whether success in the Senate can be translated into future success on a national level remains unanswered.

After his victory, Kennedy was asked whether

COLDEST THERE, HOTTEST HERE!

Long Beach was hot Friday. In fact, the hottest spot in the nation, much of which was suffering in the coldest weather of the winter.

It was 89 degrees above zero here.

In Glasgow, Mont., it was 22 below, in Fargo, N.D., 21 below, and in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin 20 below, and due to get 10 degrees colder.

The weatherman predicts more of the same today for Long Beach. Skies here will be sunny, high temperature about 88 and night-time lows in the mid-50s.

Friday's 89 degrees broke all Long Beach heat records for a Jan. 3 and equalled the previous all-time high for any January day, set on Jan. 24 and 25, 1951. Hottest previous Jan. 3 here was 82 degrees in 1953. Lowest high temperature for a Jan. 3 was 28 degrees in 1924.

Russ Blame 6th Fleet for Mideast Crisis

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union accused the U.S. 6th Fleet Thursday of "inspiring Israeli aggressions" and said Soviet naval forces were in the Mediterranean to guard the interests of Arab countries.

The statements were made by Fleet Adm. Vladimir Kasatonov, first deputy commander of Soviet naval forces.

"The Soviet warships are staying in the Mediterranean Sea in conformity with the interests of the Arab states, victims of Israeli aggression," the admiral said.

"SOVIET warships entered the Mediterranean in order to consolidate international peace and security. This was done chiefly in view of the provocative activities of the 6th U.S. Fleet during the Israeli aggression against the United Arab Republic, Syria, and Jordan."

His statement came as the U.S. urged restraint by Jews and Arabs in the Middle East and warned of possible catastrophe if they fail to exercise it.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk delivered the American warning as reports from Washington and other major Western capitals said a Soviet-proposed big-power Middle East peace guarantee had won little support.

On the arms front, Britain revealed it would supply ground-to-air missiles to Jordan and the Soviet Union was reported trying to stop the supply of 50 U.S. Phantom jets to Israel.

In Washington Rusk reiterated that the Big Four powers "can help" make peace in the Middle East. But he put most of the burden on Israel and the Arab states to avoid a "breakdown of the present tenuous arrangements." Such a breakdown, he said, "would be catastrophic for all the peoples of that area."

In a two-pronged effort this week the Soviets had sought to get the U.S., Britain and France to join it in putting together a Mideast peace.

But the disclosure of the British missile sale to Jordan, reports of Arab guerrilla activity in southern Lebanon, threats of a major commando attack on Israel, and Arab-Israeli artillery and rocket exchanges combined to add tension to the strained situation.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said in Jerusalem Israel would not accept a settlement "which the parties themselves did not reach."

He denounced the Soviet peace plan put forward in meetings in Washington, Paris and London Thursday as a "phony peace offensive and imposed solution."

Britain and the U.S. also were reliably reported to be cool to the Soviet plan, which suggested a prior Israeli withdrawal from territory occupied by its forces during the 1967

2 Red Ammo Caches Uncovered

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday — American infantrymen driving to disrupt any Communist plans for a new buildup against Saigon killed 39 Red troops and uncovered two large ammunition caches near the capital, spokesmen said today. American B-52 bombers supported the ground troops with their heaviest strikes in three weeks, flying 10 raids Thursday and Friday. They devastated a big Viet Cong military complex in the Mekong Delta. Sweeping U.S. troops found one armaments cache 13 miles south of Saigon which had been dug only two weeks ago. A Viet Cong prisoner led Americans to the other supply site 20 miles northwest of Saigon. The two caches contained 252 anti-tank grenades, 37 rounds of recoilless rifle ammunition, 30 cases of small-arms ammunition and scores of fuses and primers.

U.S. Forces intercepted two Communist groups moving Friday in provinces bordering Saigon. They reported killing 39 of their enemy while suffering four wounded. Twenty-two of the Red soldiers were killed in five hours of fighting 60 miles southwest of Saigon when U.S. 9th Infantry Division soldiers tangled with a 30-man Communist force. Spokesmen said 17 other Communist soldiers were killed 77 miles northeast of Saigon by rockets fired from U.S. helicopters. There were no American casualties.

'69 TET SECURITY

SAIGON — Security measures have been increased recently throughout Saigon and other South Vietnamese cities in reaction to speculation that the enemy may be planning a major offensive. Although life in the urban areas becomes more normal, military authorities are highly aware of the danger of an enemy attack on population centers. No one has forgotten the Tet offensive of 1968. No one needs to be reminded that Tet 1969 is only six weeks away. If an offensive does begin, the Allies feel they must halt it quickly if the enemy is to be denied a crucial propaganda victory.

Measles Epidemic Breaks Out in Biafra

UMUAHIA — The Biafran chief health officer, Dr. R. N. Onyemelukwe, reported Friday a measles epidemic has broken out in different parts of Biafra but the government, helped by international bodies, planned to vaccinate 1.5 million children. A vaccination campaign against measles and smallpox is being carried out in refugee camps, feeding centers and hospitals. Health sources say it will cost about $1 million. Money is being provided by foreign relief agencies.

Lin Piao Held Probable Heir to Mao

HONG KONG — A new constitution of the Communist Party of China is expected to name Defense Minister Lin Piao as heir to Mao Tse-tung as leader of China and to eliminate formal elections as the method of choosing Chinese Communist leaders, informed sources said Friday. A draft of a new Communist Party constitution, which has been circulated by Peking among provincial officials, has reached western sources in Hong Kong and is expected to be adopted at the Ninth Congress of the Chinese party in the spring.

Turkey Agrees to 6th Fleet Visits

ANKARA — The Turkish Foreign Ministry has accepted in principle a program of six visits by units of the U.S. 6th Fleet to Turkey in 1969, official sources said Friday. The dates, locations and size of the visits have been set, the informants said. Visits by the 6th Fleet to Turkey last year were the occasion of anti-American protests. During a visit to Istanbul in July American sailors were attacked by Turkish youths and 20 were injured.

Thai Black Panthers Ready for Action

BANGKOK — The second half of Thailand's Black Panther Division will leave for South Vietnam later this month, Gen. Chalard Hirasiri said Friday. Hirasiri, commander of Thai troops in Vietnam, said an advance party of 30 men will leave next week for Saigon to prepare for the arrival of the 6,000 infantrymen, artillerymen, engineers and signalcorpsmen. The men, all volunteers, have been training for five months. The other 6,000 soldiers of the division went to South Vietnam last January.

Midwest States Hit by Subzero Weather

CHICAGO — The coldest weather of the winter settled into the northern plains and upper Mississippi Valley Friday and northwesterly winds carried a prospective freeze clear to the Gulf Coast, setting off freezing rain, sleet and snow en route. The cold intensified in an area two or three states deep below the Canadian border between the Rockies and the Great Lakes already nipped by subzero temperatures. Readings 20 to 30 below zero today were forecast for the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Friday morning lows included 22 below at Glasgow, Mont., and a minus 21 degrees at Fargo, N.D. On the western side of the Rockies, more freezing rain fell on some of an area still partly paralyzed by a storm of snow, ice and sleet nearly a week ago. The penetrating wind ushering the arctic air down the midcontinent deposited new snow along the Great Lakes, and touched off rains in the warm air in Texas and the Mississippi Valley. The Weather Bureau said Chicago's Jan. 4 record low of -14, set in 1884, is threatened, and an accompanying 15 to 22 miles an hour wind would produce a chill factor equivalent to 60 below zero.

Astronauts to Be Honored in Capital

WASHINGTON — America's moon-circling astronauts will appear before a meeting of the Senate and House Thursday during a day of ceremonies honoring them in the nation's capital. Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Cpt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. William A. Anders and their families will be guests at the White House. President Johnson will present the astronauts the Distinguished Service Medal of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Rusk Urges Restraint in Mideast

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dean Rusk called upon Arab states Friday to "do their utmost" to restrain terrorism against Israel. He balanced this statement, couched in the sternest language used lately by Washington to criticize the Arabs, with a warning to Israel that "a policy of excessive retaliation" would not lead to peace. The latest tit-for-tat attacks against Arab and Israeli commercial aircraft, he said, had left peace in the region "extremely precarious." It was time, he said, to "reverse the cycle of violence" and replace it with "a new impetus" toward peace.

Plane Hijack Reward Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON — A $30,000 reward would be offered for apprehension and conviction of any person who hijacks a U.S. commercial aircraft under legislation introduced in the House Friday. The bill of Rep. Louis C. Wyman, R-N.H., also would require that a bullet-proof door separate passengers from the flight deck of airliners.

Coast-to-Coast Oil Strike Under Way

DENVER — Headquarters of Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union said an orderly strike of its members began at east coast refineries and spread across the country as the clock struck 12:01 a.m. today, local time. A union spokesman said "workers would help with orderly procedures to assure safety of the refineries and the communities surrounding them." This strike by 60,000 OCAW members is the union's first since a nationwide walkout in 1952. About 5,000 union workers are affected in the Southland by the walkout—including many in the Wilmington-area refineries.

Seven Children Die in Home Fire

BLOOMER, Wis. — Seven children ranging in age from 1 to 11 perished early Friday when a fire destroyed their rural home while their parents were away. Two teen-age brothers escaped the flames. The parents arrived home while firemen were fighting the blaze and both collapsed at the scene. They were taken to Bloomer Memorial Hospital suffering from shock. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Mamie Van Doren Ends No. 3

Combined News Services

Sexpot Mamie Van Doren ended her third marriage Friday when she divorced one-time baseball player Lee Meyers at Santa Ana.

Superior Court Judge William C. Speirs awarded an interlocutory decree to the blonde movie actress on her complaint that Meyers, 13 years her junior, tired of her and remained away "for a week at a time" on several occasions during the last six months. Miss Van Doren, now 36, had married Meyers at Boise, Ida., on May 14, 1964, when he was 19 and a rookie pitcher in the Chicago Cubs system. The handsome 23-year-old Meyers likes the beach, Miss Van Doren said; he spent "a lot of time riding the waves" at Huntington Beach, his home town when he married her. He is the son of a well-to-do businessman. Meyers did not contest the divorce, and agreed to a property settlement. The blonde bomb, who was groomed by Hollywood as successor to Marilyn Monroe, told Judge Speirs that Lee's behavior "made me nervous, and I lost weight." It apparently did not affect her famed dimensions of 37-23-36, observers noted. Miss Van Doren has been living at the Balboa Bay Club in Newport Beach, alternately secluding herself and sunning her famed figure.

HOFFA APPEAL

Imprisoned Teamster Chief James R. Hoffa Friday appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court a second time his 1964 conspiracy and fraud conviction in Chicago. In an inch-thick petition, Hoffa's attorneys listed 16 questions for the high court's attention. Hoffa is in the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., where he is serving an eight year sentence for jury tampering in Nashville, Tenn.

KING DAY

Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, Dr. Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference successor, Friday asked that the slain civil rights leader's Jan. 15 birthday be celebrated as a national holiday. Abernathy told a news conference in New York he plans to petition Congress and President-elect Nixon to set aside that day as a national holiday. The SCLC leader said that this year the Sunday before or after King's birthday would be marked as "Martin Luther King Sunday," with concurrent demonstrations planned in 50 cities.

MAID OF COTTON

Texas Cathryn Muirhead was named 1969 maid of cotton Friday night in Memphis. Miss Muirhead, a 5-foot, 6-inch sophomore at Texas Women's University, was one of Texas' four entries in the quest for the right to represent king cotton around the world.

RECEPTION

The first inaugural-week reception in honor of a vice president-elect will be held Jan. 19 in the exhibition halls of the Smithsonian Institution in honor of Spiro T. Agnew. More than 9,000 guests, newsmen and security guards are expected at the Smithsonian's museum of History and Technology. Reception committee officials said at a news conference that the invited guests will listen to music played by the Army band, sip champagne and be offered the crystal goblets—each embossed with Agnew's signature—to take home with them.

TUNA FLEET TO SAIL AS PRICE OK'D

The American Tuna Sales Association Friday accepted a bid of $321 a ton for yellowfin tuna ending a three-day boycott by the San Diego and San Pedro fishing fleet.

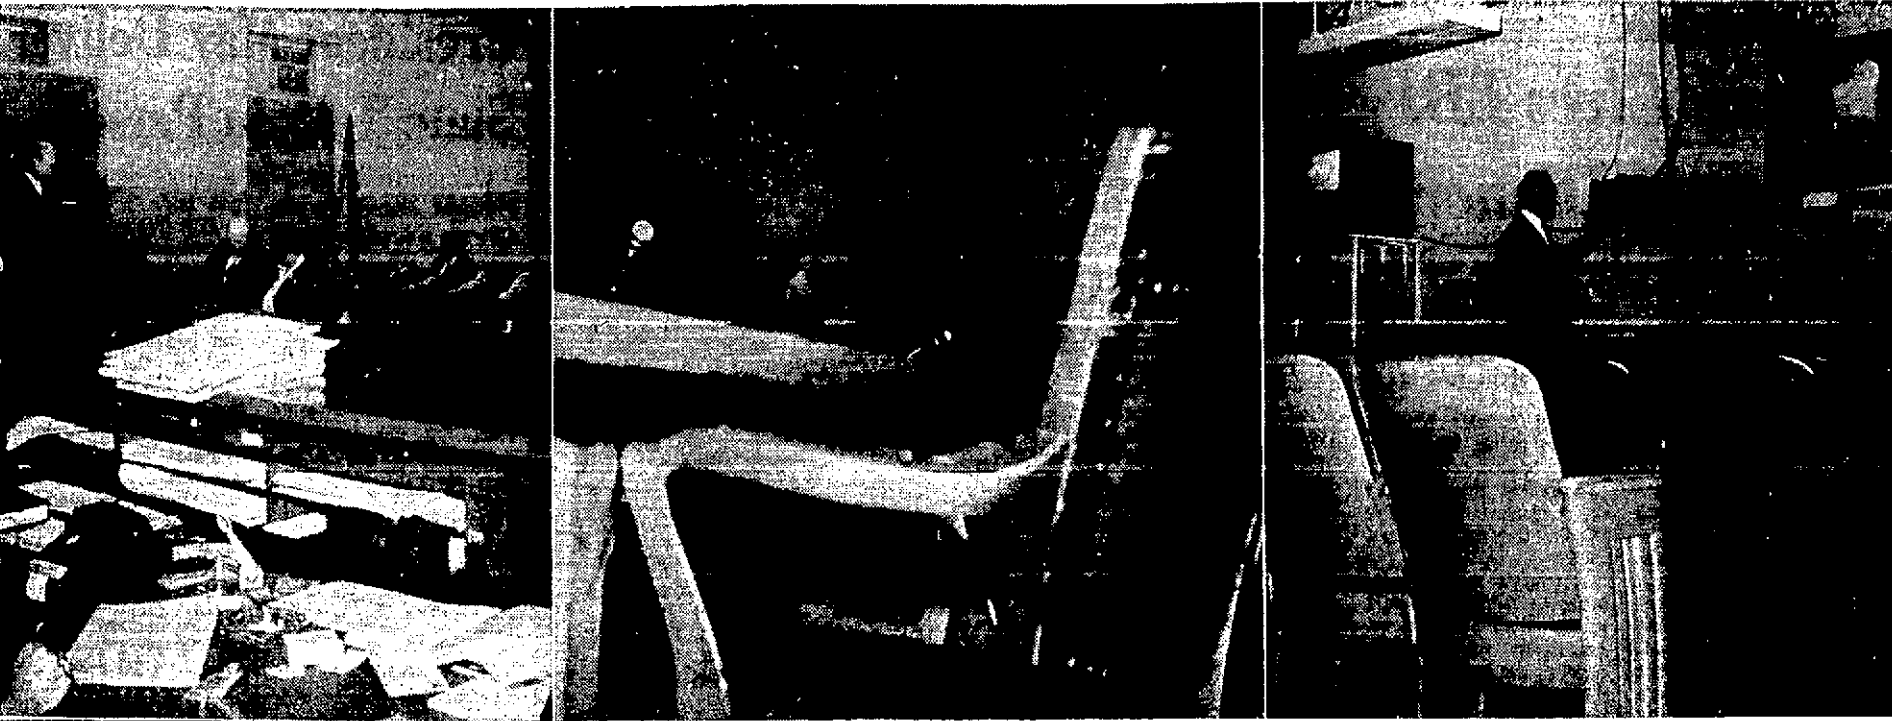

The association, earlier in the week had rejected lower bids for yellowfin tuna and the 101-vessel fleet remained in port instead of leaving Jan. 1, the traditional start of the fishing season.

The agreement meant the vessels would be leaving port over the weekend for the fishing grounds. The ATSA was formed last year after the yellowfin price dropped to $265 a ton. The purse seiner fleet did not sail until a price of $315 a ton was offered Feb. 10.

criminal justice says, it will be a trial.
"We don't want another Dallas."

MAXIMUM-SECURITY COURTROOM on the 13th floor of the Hall of Justice in Los Angeles is made ready for the man accused of slaying Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. At left, court officials are shown looking over courtroom, decked with television cameras disguised as air conditioning boxes, emergency lighting systems and drapes that cover steel plates mounted over the windows. Court reporter Vesta Minnick (center) is seen from the chair Sirhan will sit in during the trial. At right, H. M. Frediani, criminal courts coordinator, adjusts television monitoring equipment in fourth-floor room where most of the press will view the trial. Only 35 newsmen will be allowed in the courtroom itself. It was Frediani's idea, in July, to set up the television courtroom. Besides Sirhan, security measures have also been taken to protect Judge Herbert V. Walker and prosecuting and defense attorneys. All have been threatened.

'FORTRESS' READY FOR SIRHAN TRIAL

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

The courtroom in which Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, will make a fight for his life is ready for its Tuesday debut.

A fixed television camera peeks from between broken spokes of a fake air conditioning unit in a corner of the room.

The steel plates which cover the windows are draped.

The swinging gates which ordinarily separate spectators from participants in court are "fixed" — one is stationary, the other swings only inward to halt, at least momentarily, someone rushing towards the defendant, the attorneys or the judge.

All have been threatened.

In two corners of the room, atop their own power systems, are auxiliary lights — to be used in case the power system in the formidable Hall of Justice is sabotaged or fails.

The courtroom — without lights — is "dark as a tomb" — and that is what it could turn into, court officials fear, if the lights went out. The auxiliary lighting will flash on — automatically — if the other lights fail.

Uniformed sheriff's deputies, as they did in the pre-trial hearing courtroom five floors above, will line the walls. Twelve uniformed men, unarmed, were stationed at all times in the small 13th floor courtroom — more are expected in the regular-size, Dept. 107 courtroom of Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker.

The number of "plain-clothesmen" varied during pre-trial hearings, and will be an unknown factor during the trial.

Although the courtroom will be a fortress in itself, corridors and adjacent rooms also will be part of the protection.

The entire southwestern corner of the eighth floor will be sealed off, with armed deputies standing guard at specially constructed doors, heavily padlocked.

The doors block what, up to a month ago, were corridors encircling the floor.

Windows have been eliminated.

A door, which a month ago, lead to an office adjacent to the courtroom, had been boarded up.

Every precaution has been taken to insure the safety of the man accused of killing the young New York senator on the eve of his greatest political victory.

Sirhan's path from his exclusive cell on the 13th floor to his far-right seat at the counsel table had to be made much safer than Kennedy's short-cut route June 5 through a kitchen in the Ambassador Hotel.

Sirhan's path is safer than the courtroom itself.

The young Arab nationalist will never be seen by anyone outside the Courtroom except the deputies guarding him.

He will travel from the 13th floor via jail elevator to the ninth floor — also a "jail floor" — then by a direct stairway to the courtroom. The stairway passes a solid-doored "holding tank" where the defendant will be held during courtroom recesses.

Access to Sirhan, as it has been since his arrest, will be almost impossible for members of the press and television, who have arrived from throughout the world to cover the trial.

Cooper Mum at Quiz on Friars Trial

One of the defense attorneys for accused assassin Sirhan Bishara Sirhan refused to answer questions of a federal grand jury Friday.

Attorney Grant B. Cooper was questioned about the unauthorized possession of a transcript during the Friars Club card-cheating trial.

Cooper defended Las Vegas developer Maurice Friedman, 52, during the six-month-long trial, which ended in the conviction of all five defendants on varying charges of conspiracy, using interstate transportation and communication to further the conspiracy and income tax evasion.

HE TOLD the jury he claimed the privilege of confidential communication between lawyer and client.

He also said he was following the advice of an eminent judge who suggested a lawyer in such a position should choose to go to jail for contempt.

However, no action was taken against Cooper immediately, who will be involved in the defense of Sirhan beginning next Tuesday.

The grand jury is attempting to determine if others — including lawyers — were involved in obtaining and using the unauthorized transcript.

Hayakawa to Ban Events Likely to Disturb Studying

Combined News Services

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco State College will reopen for classes Monday under new "no nonsense" regulations to prevent a renewal of disturbances which wracked the school before the holiday vacation.

Acting President S. I. Hayakawa has prepared a proclamation forbidding "rallies, parades, hootenannies, hoe-downs, chivarees and all other public events likely to disturb the studios in their reading or reflection."

THE BAN applies to the central campus area which was the scene of frequent violent confrontations between students and police before Christmas.

Hayakawa scheduled a news conference for this morning to disclose his plans for reopening the school. Contents of his order to the faculty, staff and students were disclosed Friday.

The central campus area will be closed to "general use by unauthorized persons from off campus," Hayakawa said. This was aimed at preventing recurrence of unauthorized outdoor meetings in which prominent Negro leaders from San Francisco addressed students in support of the strike by the Black Students Union and the Third World Liberation Front.

Hayakawa's new order significantly tightens restrictions he imposed in an emergency proclamation tion issued when he took office early in December during the height of student turmoil. Disruptions which required massive use of police continued until school was recessed a week early for the holidays.

Under the new orders, picketing will not be permitted in the central campus area. "Reasonable informational picketing" may be conducted in other places, but "is expected to be silent," the president said.

Hayakawa said groups seeking to picket near the campus "must have arrangements with city officials to utilize sidewalks and streets on the perimeter of the campus." The state college is located in a crowded residential area at the southern edge of the city.

The president warned that the speakers' platform in the Campus Plaza may not be used and that "no substitute locations on the central campus are authorized" for rallies.

The new rulings were imposed for the period Jan. 6 when classes are to resume until Jan. 31.

MEANWHILE, leaders of the rebellious students plotted their own strategy for the return of the school's 18,000 students to the campus. Spokesmen for the students said nothing had been settled during the holiday break despite the efforts of several groups to mediate.

The American Federation of Teachers, which represents 250 of about 1,100 faculty members at the college, has announced plans to strike beginning Monday unless its demands are met. The demands include settlement of the dispute between the college administration and the Black Students Union. The student strike group has issued 15 demands, including the unlimited enrollment of Negro students and rehiring a faculty member who was fired for advocating that black students arm themselves.

Meanwhile, the AFT chapter at San Jose State agreed after an all-day meeting Friday to "send as many of our teachers to San Francisco State as possible" to support the teachers' strike, should it materialize.

And at nearby College of San Mateo, police are keeping the homes of school trustees under surveillance after some received threatening letters.

Police said five bullets were fired into the former home of trustee Carl E. Ward in San Mateo, who is still listed as living at the address in the phone book.

VANDALS caused damage next door to the home of trustee Robert Tarver in Burlingame earlier this week and police believe Tarver may have been the target of the vandalism.

College officials said Friday police will be back at the 6,800-student junior college Monday and tight security measures will be in effect.

The college became a virtual police camp just before Christmas recess, after a small group of students went on a 30-minute rampage, damaging property and attacking students and faculty.

MUD PLUGS OIL WELL GAS LEAK

A natural gas leak in a troublesome oil well north of Granada Hills apparently was stopped Friday, crews for the Getty Oil Co. said.

Some of the pressure in the well was bled off and water and mud were dumped down the seven-inch casing about 60 feet into the 8,000-foot deep shaft, they explained.

The leak in the oil-gas well in Alise Canyon started more than a week ago after a five-day fire in the well ended.

Dropped Pistol Discharges, Kills

A Los Angeles gun collector was killed Friday when a revolver he carried fell to the ground and discharged.

Police said William E. Haarmann Jr., 30, was struck in the right lower chest by a bullet from a .38-caliber revolver he bought Thursday.

BIAS PROBE BLOCKS L.A. RENTALS

The Fair Employment Practice Commission (FEPC) Friday won an injunction stopping a landlord from renting a West Los Angeles apartment while racial discrimination charges are investigated.

Superior court Judge Richard Schauer issued the preliminary injunction against landlord Arnold Lorber and Murray Green, the apartment manager.

The FEPC brought suit on behalf of music publisher Anthony Alexander, 24.

Alexander claimed racial discrimination made it impossible for him to rent the $250-a-month apartment.

Cabinet Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield asked Senate committee chairmen Friday to hold advance hearings to expedite consideration of President-elect Nixon's Cabinet selections.

'I SALUTE HIM'

Nixon Gives LBJ Toast at Dinner

CHICAGO (AP) — President-elect Nixon toasted President Johnson at a bipartisan dinner Friday night and said he was a man who "has given everything that he possibly could" to bring peace to the nation.

Nixon raised his glass and said: "The President of the United States... I salute him."

Nixon spoke at a dinner honoring three Chicagoans whom he has designated to serve in his administration. They are David M. Kennedy, secretary of the treasury-designate; George P. Shultz, secretary of labor-designate; and Robert Mayo, who was chosen as budget director.

Nixon laughed at jokes by earlier speakers referring to remarks that Kennedy made at a news conference on the price of gold.

In introducing Kennedy, Dr. Edward Levi, president of the University of Chicago, quipped that Kennedy and the other new officers "may be at a loss for topics which they may safely discuss."

Nixon grinned and laughed again when Kennedy responded, "I'd like to talk about gold but I won't."

When it was Nixon's turn to speak, he pointed to the spoons which were to serve as mementos to the dinner and said: "Look, they're silver not gold!"

Kennedy's recent statement on the price of gold at a Washington news conference started gyrations in the European gold market several weeks ago, but the fluctuations ended quickly when Nixon aides said a day later that the new administration contemplated no changes relative to the price of gold.

Some 500 business and political leaders attended the dinner given by W. Clement Stone, a Chicago insurance man and heavy contributor to the Nixon campaign.

At the last moment, Mayor Richard J. Daley telephoned and said that he would be unable to make the dinner because he was down with the flu. However, he sent two sons to represent him.

Nixon flew from balmy Los Angeles to frigid Chicago Friday evening. The Chicago dinner was a stopover as Nixon returned to New York, ending a 12-day holiday vacation.

Hold Boys, 6 and 10, in Church Blaze

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Police Friday arrested two boys, ages 6 and 10, who they said set a fire which caused up to $25,000 damage to Star of the Sea Catholic Church Thursday. The children's names were withheld.

The boys were picked up after neighbors reported seeing them playing with matches.

egations said that if a solid round table were used at the conference with each delegation sitting where it wants, they would drop their insistence the conference be considered a four-party affair.

The dispute over whether the conference should be considered a four-party affair or a conference between "two sides" as favored by the allies has been the main point of contention delaying the opening of the conference.

South Vietnam and the U.S. won't concede the NLF demand that it should have status at the talks equal to that of the Saigon government.

Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, chief of Saigon's delegation, reiterated the point after the Communist announcement Friday, stating his government will never agree to sitting at a solid round table, unless it is divided in some way.

DESPITE the continuing exchanges over the issue diplomats were heartened Friday that both sides agreed in principle on a round table, with only the issue of whether or not it should have its own demilitarized zone yet to be settled.

Tran Hoi Nam, the NFL delegation deputy leader, told newsmen Friday that if a round table were used and each of the four delegations was allowed to sit at the place of its choosing, there would no longer be any issue of the conference being four-sided or two-sided.

Negroes Hit Leaders of Fund Drive

A newly-formed Los Angeles black community group Friday attacked a $3-million fund drive to benefit poor Los Angeles Negroes.

The new group, called the Black Alternative, said the officers of the fund-raising Brotherhood Crusade were "opportunists... misleading whites."

The crusade, announced last week, is headed by Walter Bremond, who also heads the Black Congress.

The charges were made by Mrs. Margaret Wright during a news conference at a church at 1785 E. 85th St. She is president of the United Parents Council and is active in black civic affairs.

The Black Alternative is a coalition including her group and others, such as the Black Students' Alliance, the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee and the Malcolm X Foundation.

Mrs. Wright said many of the Black Alternative's member groups used to belong to Bremond's Black Congress, but withdrew "when it became obvious to them that the concept of unity was being deliberately exploited by the chairman and other opportunists."

She said Black Alternative had no alternate idea for a fund drive, but explained, "we just don't want this money to come into the black community and fall into the wrong hands."

Mrs. Wright added that whites should demand an accounting of money they contribute to the Brotherhood Crusade.

Apollo 9 Takes Its Place on Firing Pad

By AL ROSSITER JR.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Apollo 9 took its place Friday on the firing pad vacated two weeks ago by Apollo 8 in a key step toward launch Feb. 28 on an earth orbital trial of the ship built to land men on the moon.

Its pilots, James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart, were in Houston at the time getting a first hand report from the Apollo 8 crew on what to expect when they leave earth on the world's mightiest rocket.

THE 363-FOOT Apollo 9 space machine was hauled to the ocean-side launch site from its towering Assembly building 3 1/2 miles away by a mammoth tractor that averaged a half mile an hour. The pad was refurbished a week after Apollo 8's fiery departure.

Apollo 9's Saturn 5 launcher is identical to the one that gave Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders their start to the moon Dec. 21 and, from the outside, the Apollo 9 spacecraft looks like Apollo 8's.

But inside a tall, tapered shell mounted above the Saturn's third stage is the first four-legged lunar landing craft to be manned. The ungainly spacecraft, called a lunar module, was not carried by Apollo 8.

The goal of the Apollo 9 mission is to give the lunar module a thorough workout in 10-day orbit with the well-tested Apollo command ship like the one Borman, Lovell and Anders flew around the moon.

On moon flights, the lunar module will ferry two men from the three-seat command ship in orbit around the moon to a landing on the lunar surface. The lunar module will support the explorers there for the better part from turning into a big one.

"The status of the Mediterranean as an open sea does not allow the establishment over it of any control by one state or a group of states," he said.

"The Mediterranean can and must be used by all nations."

"The Soviet navy in the Mediterranean has a sufficient number of ships of various classes that have high mobility and are equipped with modern weapons."

President May Deliver State Talk in Person

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is considering a break with tradition by delivering his final State of the Union message in person.

Outgoing presidents customarily send their final message to Congress to be read. But Johnson, who flew back to Washington Friday after a rain-and-wind-plagued ranch visit, is toying with the idea of turning his message into a nationally televised farewell.

WITH Johnson already scheduled to preside over White House Ceremonies for the three Apollo 8 astronauts Jan. 9, personal delivery of his final message would help him keep some measure of attention directed to his administration until he bows out on Jan. 20.

White House aides said Thursday no decision had been made on the method of delivery or the date of the State of the Union message.

Press secretary George Christian indicated the matter would be settled in discussions between Johnson and congressional leaders.

Another issue concerning Johnson in his waning presidential days is the Mideast crisis, said Christian.

Christian said the continuing tension between Israel and its Arab neighbors is of "great concern" to Johnson. The President strongly supports the efforts of the United Nations to seek a solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict and wishes other nations would do the same, Christian said.

THE White House also put in another strong plea for prompt Senate action on the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, which Johnson had hoped would be one of the accomplishments of his administration.

Christian said Johnson continues to hope the Senate will act "at the earliest possible moment." There are many international problems connected with further delay in ratification of the treaty, he added.

his new position would give him a power base to run for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

He ducked the question. He said the post would be time consuming and that he had sought the job. He added, "I don't think there are any implications beyond that."

LONG disagreed. He called Kennedy's challenge "a move by Kennedy to get the presidential nomination in 1972."

But opinions differ on whether the new job will help or hinder Kennedy in a 1972 bid for the presidency.

As he commented, being assistant leader is time consuming and will greatly restrict his travels around the country. He mentioned it would provide him with more time to spend with other senators on the floor.

But President Johnson — then the Senate majority leader — found out at the 1960 convention that the Senate is no base for winning a presidential nomination. He lost to John F. Kennedy, who had a nationwide base.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, for instance, declined to seek the job because he did not want to be restricted by its shackles. And Muskie, very probably, has ambitions for 1972.

KENNEDY automatically becomes a member of the Democratic hierarchy at a time when it is out of power. With aged House Speaker John McCormack and self-effacing Mike Mansfield as competition, Kennedy could become the party's most attractive spokesman in the Congress.

But many feel that Kennedy does not need a forum to attract notice. Even as a back-bencher and the youngest member of the

SEN. EDWARD KENNEDY . . . New Demo Whip

Senate for the past years, a Kennedy speech, statement, or endorsement received full exposure.

Kennedy said his election was in response "to the winds of change" of 1968—a demand for positive, progressive legislation. He may help achieve that as Democratic whip.

KENNEDY WAS nominated by Muskie, who was the Democratic vice presidential nominee last year. He was seconded by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a westerner who turned down a Nixon Cabinet post, and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., who broke away from other Southerners backing Long.

Kennedy had claimed publicly the support of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the party presidential nominee, who had no vote in the caucus. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., a contender for the nomination, had told Kennedy in advance he could not vote for him and declined comment afterwards.

Kennedy said as a member of the leadership team he will try to cooperate when he can with President-elect Nixon's administration "in trying to solve the extraordinarily difficult problems we face in urban areas and elsewhere." He made it clear, however, that Democrats will propose their own programs.

$8,430 Taken by Bank Bandit

COLTON (UPI) — A man armed with a pistol came into the Mt. Vernon Avenue branch of the Bank of America Friday, leaped over a counter and took $8,430 from five tellers.

The gunman, who drove up in one car, escaped in another auto. His first car was found parked near the bank.

Wild - Wallace Supporters SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Bard Logan, chairman of the American Party in Texas, announced Friday that a national meeting of the Association of Wallace Voters will be held in Dallas Feb. 1.

George Wallace, ex-Alabama governor, was the party's candidate in last November's general election. An estimated 250 persons from 45 states are expected to attend the one-day meeting.

CRANSTON, ANDERSON MISS FIRST CONGRESS ROLL CALLS

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — California's two new congressmen—Sen. Alan Cranston and Rep. Glenn M. Anderson—missed their first roll calls after they were seated at the initial session of the 91st Congress on Thursday.

Cranston, former state comptroller, apparently missed hearing his name while deep in conversation with a colleague in the back row. Anderson, former lieutenant governor, was delayed in reaching the House chamber and didn't answer his name until the second go-around on the initial roll call and again on the vote for the speakership.

Cranston and Anderson, Democrats defeated for re-election to their state offices in 1966, each took his oath of office with other freshmen congressmen in separate House and Senate ceremonies. Cranston, who succeeds Republican Thomas H. Kuchel, was escorted into the Senate chamber by his GOP colleague, George Murphy.

Following the brief Senate proceedings, a reception hosted by Cranston in his new Senate office building suite was visited by Vice President Humphrey and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

The latter thanked Cranston for his support that morning in Kennedy's successful bid as the Senate democratic whip.

Neither Cranston nor Anderson will know his committee assignments until next week. Cranston has expressed a preference for the appropriations, public works or labor and public welfare committees. Anderson has not made his preferences known.

unsatisfied. Some wanted to keep Powell out of the 91st Congress. Others wanted him seated without further penalty.

On the final vote, 153 Democrats and 98 Republicans voted for the seating of Powell, while 74 Democrats and 86 Republicans voted against it.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., spoke for those who would seat him quietly and painlessly.

"He who is without sin in this chamber, let him cast the first stone," he said. "And I say that with particular reference to whether there are any relatives on your own pay-rolls."

"Adam Clayton Powell has been guilty of some dereliction, lapses of grace, departure from the rules," he said, "but he has been punished and any additional punishment would be vindictive."

AFTER taking the oath, Powell met with newsmen. Asked if he thought the punishment was "racist" inspired, he replied: "Yes sir."

On the loss of his seniority, he said: "Unless you're a chairman or a party leader, seniority does not mean a thing."

He said he planned to keep the spacious and plush office in the new Rayburn Building into which he moved recently. He seemed to have regained his jauntyness. He wore a gray plaid suit and a blue striped shirt.

He said he wanted to investigate the war on poverty as his first act, "I want to clean that up," he said. "I know where the skeletons are hidden." He did not elaborate.

In the House debate, the issue, as before, was Powell's conduct in office.

He was accused of keeping his wife on the government payroll without requiring her to work, of misusing official funds for personal travel and of flaunting the law in fighting a big slander suit judgment in New York.

The fine levied against Powell actually was a marked-down price tag on his alleged misconduct. A special House committee two years ago recommended a $40,000 fine and formal censure of Powell.

But that proposal was junked for outright exclusion—a decision Powell still is fighting in the U.S. Supreme Court. It was the 13th time since Jan. 3, 1945 that the controversial Powell had appeared to take the oath.

Winning his seat back by no means restored Powell to his former eminence or ended his problems. He had been a powerful chairman of an important committee, but that job was taken away just before his ouster two years

PUEBLO MEN WILL KEEP POW GARB

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The 82 surviving crewmen of the USS Pueblo are keeping as souvenirs of their 11-month imprisonment the clothes they wore when released Dec. 22.

The tailor-made garments were given them by North Koreans immediately before the release.

Known as Kimi suits, the garments have mandarin collars for enlisted men and the four-button, open-collar style for officers. The men also wore overcoats and sneakers during the release.

The Navy said Friday it is laundering and returning the clothes at the crewmen's request.

Fireman John A. Mitchell, 21, of Dixon, Calif., said Friday he wants to keep them because "every time we look at those clothes, it is a reminder to us of how good we live in America."

Barry Returns to Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Barry's back," said a bright red button.

"Now you know he's right," said a blue one.

Barry M. Goldwater indeed was back in his old domain, the U.S. Senate. At a reception in the Senate suite of Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., eager young girls and matronly older women — who had never lost faith in their man — gathered to welcome him back to Washington after an absence of four years.

Goldwater, still tanned, his hair a bit grayer than when he left, was sworn back into the Senate by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who also knows what it is like to lose a presidential election. They shook hands warmly.

Not since Henry Clay was sent back to the Senate in 1849 after losing to President James R. Polk four years earlier had an unsuccessful presidential candidate been re-elected to the Senate.

BAYH TAKES OATH ON CRUTCHES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Birch Bayh hobbled to the front of the Senate chamber on crutches Friday to be sworn in to his second term as a senator from Indiana.

The crutches, Bayh's aides said later, were made necessary by a basketball accident.

They said Bayh was playing basketball with his son Wednesday and twisted his ankle when trying for a rebound.

After the official opening ceremonies in the Senate chamber, Bayh attended a reception given in his honor by Sen. Vance Hartke, Indiana's senior Democratic senator.

Grand Jury Charges Huge Waste in County Hospitals

By BILL MAYER

From Our L.A. Bureau

The 1968 county Grand Jury retired from action Friday with resounding charges of mismanagement in the county's $140-million hospital program.

In a final public report the jury suggests there has been massive waste of public money.

The jury accused the Department of Hospitals of providing millions of dollars worth of medical care to all who seek it, without first checking patients' financial eligibility.

Such policy it added, does not seem to have been approved by the Board of Supervisors, but adopted independently by the department.

This practice is contrary to county statutes, the jury said.

The report primarily criticized the Bureau of Medical Social Services, the body responsible for determining how much patients should pay.

Despite the federal Medicare program and other recent legislation easing the local expense, the report says, "The net budeted cost for the hospital department has increased."

The report cites a 1964-65 appropriation of $87 million and one of almost $70 million in 1968-69.

It contains a communication from its contract auditor, with whom the jury stated it was generally in agreement.

"The current financial eligibility determination process," the auditor wrote, "is an expensive waste of time. There is no eligibility determination in the case of in-patients, although the departments employ about 75 college graduates for that purpose."

"The eligibility determination for out-patients is based upon formulae and guidelines which, we are told, were developed in January, 1965, as a result of surveys . . . published by government and private agencies."

"However, we have not been able to locate anyone in the Bureau of Medical Social Services who can . . . produce those surveys."

In fact, the auditor said, nobody in the department seems to know just how much money recipients should be allowed.

He said the $140-million program cost is almost 10 per cent of the entire county budget "with virtually no financial or residential eligibility limitations on who receives care in its medical institutions."

THE GRAND jury said it favored eliminating the bureau's eligibility determination unit if a financial eligibility for out-patients is not established.

The jury was critical also of the way the department prepared its budget.

The figures, the auditor stated, suggest "that the net cost of the county medical program is approximately $70."

But this figure excludes hospital-related costs, the auditor said — for instance, money going into the employee retirement fund.

"The department's budget," the report said, "is a conglomerate, unintelligible hodgepodge."

The jury report also urged introduction of a proposed law to make it possible for the Public Defender to recover more money from defendants who can pay part of the legal costs, pointed out narcotics arrests are up 164 per cent over last year, and proposed anybody charged with a felony involving civil disobedience at a school or college be suspended from the institution until the case is over.

CONTAINED in the report were comments made by William A. Barr, director of the department, to the jury's Audit Committee in a letter dated last July 24.

At that time, Barr said the department is "currently moving in the direction of admitting all who apply."

He denied the county is being over-liberal in providing "free, medical attention to those who could pay for it."

He said it is true, however, that ill persons coming to the county hospitals are seen by a doctor before their financial resources are checked.

"They are seen in the admitting room before anybody worries if they have money or not," Barr said. "After all, these are sick people." He added that patients admitted to the hospital are billed later if it is found they have money to pay the bills.

Charges are made for out-patient service, he said, with those who can afford to, paying an average of $7 a visit.

MEDIC SAYS:

Flu Spread Aided by Red China

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — The spread of Hong Kong Flu across the United States might have been prevented by a timely warning from Communist China about the sickness, a medical researcher said Friday.

Dr. John M. Hunter, a Michigan State University specialist in medical geography, said the flu probably originated in China two to three months before it hit America.

"Red China is not a member of the World Health Organization (WHO) that runs the early warning system for communicable diseases," Hunter said.

HUNTER said the flu bug was carried to the United States by American travelers returning from the port cities of Hong Kong and Singapore.

"From Communist China, flu spreads to Hong Kong, which is the western world outlet, and to Singapore," he said.

Hunter said this was the same pattern for the spread of the Asian flu in 1957. He said there was likewise insufficient warning from Communist China that time.

"Red China seems to have a monopoly on the production of these influenza type viruses," he said. "Already two new flu viruses have come out of there within the last 11 years."

Jewels in Car Stolen

Ann McCollum of Tusculum, Ala., told Long Beach police Friday that her car, parked in the 2000 block of Cedar Avenue, was looted of a suitcase containing more than $2,000 in jewelry.

Flu Deaths Continue Climb Across Nation 4th Week

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Hong Kong flu and similar illnesses claimed 652 lives across the nation last week, boosting the death toll in the month-long epidemic to 1,608, the National Communicable Disease Center said Friday.

The NCDC also said the flu, characterized as a mild illness in most cases, had spread to all of the 50 states. The final states reporting the disease were Mississippi, Louisiana and Hawaii. All three said there were isolated cases of the Hong Kong flu within their borders.

For the fourth consecutive week, excess mortality due to influenza and pneumonia has been reported in 122 major U.S. cities, the NCDC said. For the week ended Dec. 28, the excessive deaths numbered 652.

During the first week of the epidemic, there were 196 deaths attributed to the flu, 213 the following week and 547 for the week before Christmas.

NCDC projection-charts showed that 516 deaths from respiratory diseases were expected during the past week. Instead, difference between the two figures was the "excess" mortality rate which NCDC attributed to the flu epidemic.

Excessive flu deaths were reported in all geographic divisions of the nation except the east south central and the west south central divisions — generally the southern tier of states.

Based on past experience with the Asian flu epidemics of 1957, 1962 and 1967, the NCDC said an attack rate of 10 to 15 per cent nationally could be expected of the Hong Kong flu. This would indicate that more than 20 million Americans could come down with the flu before it wanes in February.

Absenteeism Eases But Flu Still Here

Absenteeism in offices and industries in Los Angeles County appeared on the decline Friday but health officials said this does not necessarily mean the flu epidemic is on the wane.

A spot check by the county Health Department of major employers showed fewer workers were off the job than last week.

However, a department spokesman noted absenteeism would normally be higher during the holidays and decline after the New Year.

During the final week in December there were six deaths from Hong Kong flu and 29 from pneumonia. This compares with 25 deaths — 1 flu and 24 pneumonia — during the same week in 1967.

FLU MAKES 3 WHALES MOPEY DICKS

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Shamu, Kilroy and Ramu became grumpy, sluggish and refused to do their tricks. An examination found a whale of flu outbreak at the Sea World aquatic park.

Shamu, Kilroy and Ramu are killer whales. Dr. David W. Kenney, veterinarian, said, "They can catch pneumonia as a result of the flu, just like humans."

They were being stuffed with antibiotics. Ramu, the sickest of the three, is getting 375 pills stuffed in mackerel every six hours. Blood samples indicate Ramu and the others have Hong Kong flu.

At least the whales haven't started sneezing yet. "A whale sneezes through his blow hole and it's really an explosive effort," Kenney reported.

ARRESTS UP 164%

Grand Jury Urges Antidrug-Use Drive

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The county Grand Jury Wednesday recommended that an antidrug-use campaign be launched, including television commercials, a daily newspaper column and a sanctuary for addicts.

Noting that narcotic arrests are 164 per cent higher than last year, the jury also recommended a "sanctuary" for addicts complemented by a "detoxification" program. This would give drug users a place for treatment and rehabilitation separated from those arrested for felonies not related with drugs.

The program also included a "hot-line" telephone counseling service and the formation of a central agency to dispense information on narcotics.

The recommendations were included in the 1968 jury's final report.

Smoking Decline First Since '64

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cigarette smoking in America declined slightly last year, the first downturn since one in 1964 after the surgeon general's report on smoking and health.

Following this Friday report by the Department of Agriculture, the director of the government's antismoking campaign said the decline should not only continue in future years but accelerate.

Dr. Daniel Horn, director of the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, said he long has believed that "once it started to go down, it would be like pushing a big snowball over a hill—it would pick up speed."

Asked whether he thinks this will happen now, Dr. Horn commented, "I see no reason why it shouldn't."

The decline reported by Agriculture officials was extremely small in terms of percentage—from 527.8 billion cigarettes in 1967 to 526.5 billion in 1968.

But Horn said "it's particularly significant" because with the increase in population and other factors, an increase of about 2.5 per cent would indicate no change.

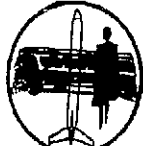

During the year the U.S. population rose by one per cent to 202.3 million persons.

"What's particularly encouraging about it," Horn said, "is that the rate of giving up smoking has increased appreciably over what it was before." And he said a survey indicated earlier this year that teenage smoking was on the decline for the first time in years.

What's influencing people to give up the habit? The Public Health Service's spot television commercials are having a major influence, Horn said.

No Doubt About It, Buckeyes Are No. 1

Associated Press
Ohio State's all-conquering Buckeyes proved their superiority over Southern California in the battle of No. 1 vs No. 2 on the Rose Bowl field New Year's Day.
Friday, sports writers and sportscasters voted them the national collegiate football championship by an overwhelming margin in the final Associated Press poll.
Penn State's Nittany Lions, the only other major unbeaten-untied team, moved up to second place on the strength of their 15-14 Orange Bowl triumph over Kansas.
Cotton Bowl victor Texas was third, while Southern California slipped from second to fourth.
Penn State and Texas received two first place votes. Arkansas, which jumped from ninth to sixth after upsetting Georgia in the Sugar Bowl, picked up one.
The Buckeyes came home from their Rose Bowl victory Friday to a boisterous indoor reception at the Columbus Airport.
Some 2,000 happy fans and a high school band crowded into the airport terminal in 17-degree weather to welcome the happy warriors.
The sophomore-laden cinderella team from Ohio State University had done just what coach Woody Hayes said they could do: beat Southern California.
Numerous signs proclaimed, "Ohio State Takes The Cake," "Numero Uno," and "National Champs," as the victorious Buckeyes filed off a chartered plane.

Swimming 'Big Three' Tangle in L. B. Today

By ALLEN WOLFE
"The Big three" once denuded golf's Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player. Not so anymore.
USC, UCLA and Cal State Long Beach will have a chance to validate their claim as California's "big three" of college swimming in today's Western Universities Invitational Relay at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.
Cal State hosts 12 university and college diving teams in the unique relay meet which features eight swimming and two diving events.
The four hour program is split into two sessions, the first beginning at 10 a.m. and the second getting under way at 2 p.m.
Joining the big three will be UC Santa Barbara, Occidental, Brigham Young, UC Irvine, Fresno State, Claremont-Mudd, UC Davis, San Diego State and Cal State Los Angeles.
"Right now, USC has to be favored in just about every event, but UCLA and Cal State will be close," said 49er swimming coach Don Gambrell Friday.
"We're strong and should win our share of events. I think with a little effort we can finish in the top three in each event," said Gambrell, who will serve as meet director.
The 49ers are led by three all-Americans, Randy Grimm, Dennis Putnam and Pat Yelovich. USC will counter with NCAA 500-yard freestyle champion Greg Charlton and NCAA butterfly king Phil Houser.
In the intermediate and 3-meter diving events, Rusty McCarthy of Cal State will face USC's

Cal State Stymies Titans

By JIM McCORMACK

FULLERTON—Cal State Long Beach's zone defense is getting stronger and stronger.

It was at its devastating best Friday night when Cal State Fullerton managed only 17 field goals and fell to the visiting 49ers, 79-58.

The victory was the 11th in 12 games for Jerry Tarkanian's troops and their first in California Collegiate Athletic Assn. competition.

The 49ers host Cal Poly Pomona tonight at 8 o'clock in another CCAA encounter. A frosh prelim will begin at 5:45.

"We worked on their zone," Fullerton coach Alex Omalev said. "But it didn't help because the people we practiced against have nowhere near the ability Long Beach does."

"They are faster, taller and quicker than we are. But as much as the defense hurt us, I thought they just shot us out of the gym."

For 13 minutes of the first half the 49ers were a super team.

Fullerton led, 9-8, with 13:32 remaining in the first half when the 49ers went on a fantastic binge.

Sam Robinson's three-point play made it 11-9, and 13 minutes later, at the half, the 49ers were on top, 48-20.

"That streak was as good as we have played," Tarkanian praised. "I wish we could have maintained it in the second half, though."

The 49ers didn't need a second half. They made 20 of 33 shot attempts in the first 20 minutes, compared to 8 of 30 for the Titans.

Counting Robinson's three-point play, the 49ers had a 7-0 burst, then a 15-3 explosion and finally, capped the half with an 18-5 blast.

At halftime Robinson had 12 points, Shawn Johnson 11, Bob Lynn, Sleepy Montgomery and Ray Grillon eight.

Cal State went 5:10 without a field goal in the second session, but its defense remained so stable the Titans managed to cut only seven points off the 49ers advantage when Robinson broke the drought with a 14-footer.
What ground Fullerton managed to make up in the second half came when the game suddenly turned into a whistle contest.

Fullerton went to the line 25 times in the last 20 minutes and made 20 free throws.

Although the second half was a ragged affair, the 49ers emerged with a statistically impressive effort. They hit 31 of 63 field goal attempts, including a 6-for-8 night by super sub Montgomery, and also added 17 of 21 free throws.

By contrast, the 49ers zone was limiting the Titans to 17 floor baskets in 64 attempts (27 per cent).

Robinson led Cal State with 18 points, followed by Montgomery and Grillon with 13 apiece, Johnson with 11 and Lynn with 10. Forward Steve Howe was the only Titan to reach double figures, scoring 15 points.

Fullerton's zone defense was limiting the Titans to 17 floor baskets in 64 attempts (27 per cent).

Jet Blasts Barnes Out of Lineup

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics' Jim (Bad News) Barnes, literally swept off his feet by the engine backwash of a jet plane, returned to Boston Friday with an "outrageous headache," fuzzy hearing and a sharp pain in his shooting arm.

Barnes was caught in the blast New Year's Eve when the Celtics were switching planes in Chicago for their flight to Phoenix for Wednesday's National Basketball Assn. meeting with the Suns.

"I was walking to the terminal building with Tom Sanders and Rich Johnson when a plane was pulling away from the next gate," Barnes said.

The plane turned, putting Barnes directly in the path of its engine exhaust.

"All of a sudden I went flying through the air," Barnes said. "I tried to fall down, but the pressure was so great I couldn't. I finally stopped against a fence 50 feet away."

He was unable to hear in his right ear for three hours. He said his hearing still is not normal.

A doctor in Phoenix diagnosed whiplash and a possible loss of balance caused by the blast.

"I didn't even notice it then because I was so worried about my hearing," Barnes said.

Barnes was unable to play against the Suns, although he took 20 practice shots.

"None went in," he said. "I think the whole thing did effect my balance."

Other members of the team left the plane at different times and were unaware of the accident, Barnes said.

There was no word on how long he might be out of the lineup.
"Now the only time I fell all right is when I'm sleeping," he said.

A 'Foul' Mood by Trojans

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

This has not been USC's week.

Favored by 16 points, the Trojan basketball team lost its L.A. Sports Arena magic Friday night when Utah's young Redskins built up a comfortable lead, then held off a late USC surge to score an 80-72 victory before 2,095 fans.

It was the first home defeat in seven games for the Trojans.

They were dispatched in much the same manner as the USC football team was in the Rose Bowl Wednesday.

Utah simply outmuscled the Trojans and hit key free throws down the stretch to win its fifth game in 12 starts.

Mike Newlin, 6-4 sophomore forward out of St. Francis High in La Crescenta, scored 32 points, including six free throws in the last 51 seconds, when the Trojans were desperately trying to get possession of the ball.

"Newlin is as good as any player we've seen this year," said USC coach Bob Boyd.

Newlin's coach was equally impressed.

"It was Mike's best game," said Redskin coach Jack Gardner. "He hit in the clutch, both from the field and the foul line."

The Redskins kept the Trojans off balance by switching from a man-to-man to zone defense in the second half.

"We felt we could better control the tempo by doing this switching," said Gardner. "It took USC time to adjust to the changes and made it more difficult for the Trojans to catch up."

The Trojans had to play catchup ball the last 37 minutes of the game.

Newlin's field goal after three minutes of action gave the Redskins an 8-6 lead, and tremendous outside shooting helped them build a 44-32 halftime edge.

Utah shot 64 per cent in the first half.

The Redskins boosted their margin to 16 points in the second half before the Trojans began whittling away.

With 4:21 remaining, Utah's lead had been shaved to 68-59, and it had only a 74-70 edge after USC center Ron Taylor scored a basket with 1:03 left.

But the Trojans fouled the wrong player in trying to stop the clock. Three times Newlin was given one-and-one free throw opportunities, and he came through with six points that killed USC.

The Redskins didn't score a field goal in the last 5 1/2 minutes, but sank 13 free throws.

"We went into what we call a soft freeze with 4:21 to go," said Gardner. "With three minutes left, we went into a deep freeze."

Utah hit 56 per cent of its shots for the game while the Trojans were in a deep freeze themselves at 36.5 per cent.

Basketball Star Enters S. Illinois

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UPI) — Former Marion high school basketball star Greg Starrick, who quit the University of Kentucky Thursday, enrolled Friday at Southern Illinois University.
Director of Admissions Jerry Pfaff said Starrick had been admitted to Southern Illinois for the winter term and would begin class registration Monday.

Ex-LSU Golfer in Lead

Mac McLendon, 23, of Birmingham, Ala., set a blistering pace in the first half of the first round of the Southern California Open golf tournament Friday with a seven-under par 65.

McLendon, a captain of the Louisiana State University golf team who turned pro eight months ago, shot seven birdies over the par-72, 6,905-yard Los Coyotes course.

Defending champion Billy Casper, national open champion Lee Trevino, Bob Murphy and other stars of the PGA tour tee off in the second half of the first round early today.

McLendon came in two strokes better than his closest competitors, former PGA champion Jerry Barber and four Californians, Steve Bogan, Chuck Montalbano, Ross Randall and Jim Gilbert.

Three others, Rusty Uhl, Curtis Sifford and Dick Lotz, were in with 4-under par 68s.

Bobby Kosburg, former national PGA champion, and veteran Billy Maxwell were the only seasoned tournament campaigners to stay near the pace. They were tied at 3-under-par 69 with two professionals, Eddie Merrins and Monte Sanders, the low pro in Thursday's pro amateur with a 67.

The 36-hole competition concludes on Sunday after the 348-player field is cut to the 80 low professionals and 15 low amateurs for the final round.

White Sox in Mexico
CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox announced Friday they will play four night games in Mexico City March 2, 3, 4 and 5 against the Mexico City Tigers and the Mexico City Reds.
Philadelphia coach Jack Ramsay and his 76ers were not surprised they beat the Lakers, albeit they didn't expect to lead by 27 points at halftime and by 37 after three periods.
"The Lakers are not a running team," says Ramsay, whose club had proved that twice here this season with 18 and 15-point victories. "We ran well, shot well and played real good defense. . . that won the game."

15,244 See 76er Victory

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA — A professional basketball player is conditioned to some unbearable moments, but for a man with intense pride like Jerry West, the debacle here Friday night was too much to endure.

"Honestly, I've never been so embarrassed in all my life," said the all-pro guard after he and his Laker teammates were thoroughly flogged by the swift, sharpshooting Philadelphia 76ers, 130-101, before a whopping crowd of 15,244 in the spectrum.

West, who has played nearly 700 games in the NBA over a nine-year span, can stomach an occasional rout, but never can he tolerate being beaten from lack of hustle . . . and the Lakers certainly were dead on their feet here Friday.

Jack Kent Cooke, who must have been horrified if he was watching on home television, should consider fining all his players for their lackluster effort. It is one thing to go down fighting and another to expire meekly.

There were contributing factors. Elgin Baylor was home in Los Angeles with the flu and the 76ers blazed the nets at a torrid 67 per cent in the first half. Still, it doesn't explain the Lakers' lack of desire especially to a player like West.

The 30-year-old superstar bared his soul to some close friends, including two reporters, but then asked that the majority of his comments be kept off the record.

West didn't need to point the finger at any of his teammates. The worst offender in the don't-give-a-damn department was Wilt Chamberlain, who was playing before fans who still adore him.

Wilt did not jump, did not rebound, did not play defense and did not shoot, and yet the fans spent all of their spare time demeaning Laker coach Bill van Breda Kolff.

Chamberlain, by no means, can take the full blame, but the fact remains that others look to him as a leader. When your superstar doesn't care, why should you?

What is so illogical about his performance was that he has played great basketball the last dozen games. Why he chose this game to loaf is puzzling . . . but then his entire career has been like this.

Van Breda Kolff, needless to say, didn't single out any of his athletes for special abuse. In fact, VBK took the drubbing rather calmly. One thing he doesn't need is another verbal war with Chamberlain.

Philadelphia coach Jack Ramsay and his 76ers were not surprised they beat the Lakers, albeit they didn't expect to lead by 27 points at halftime and by 37 after three periods.

"The Lakers are not a running team," says Ramsay, whose club had proved that twice here this season with 18 and 15-point victories. "We ran well, shot well and played real good defense. . . that won the game."

ALLEN WEIGHS THREE OFFERS, EYES LONG-TERM RAM CONTRACT

Ram owner Dan Reeves may find it harder to re-hire George Allen than it was to fire him the day after Christmas.

Reeves apparently is making every effort to rehire Allen, but the ousted Ram coach has asked for an extension of his previous contract, and also is considering two other offers.

Reeves and Allen have had several meetings, but have adopted only a "no comment" pact.

Allen's wife, Etty, revealed the other offers received by her husband.

"Buffalo, you know about," said Etty. "He's been thinking about Buffalo for several weeks."

"The other team is an NFL team," said Etty. "I don't want to say any more than that now, but I can tell you this. George is not playing off these offers one against the other. He's not saying, 'Look what the Rams did—I want more.' George is as flattered as anyone would be that three teams want him, but he's too kind of a man to hurt any of them."

It is believed Allen has asked an extension of four or five years on his previous contract, making it a total of about seven years.

Allen had two remaining years of his contract at about $50,000 a year. "Would you blame him for thinking there's still a sword dangling over his head?" asked Etty. "It simply isn't fair to ask him to come back under the same conditions."

Bruins Face Green Wave

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

In 11 games Tulane's basketball team has yielded an average of 92.5 points.

The Green Wave should be so fortunate tonight when it runs into unbeaten and unchallenged UCLA at 8 in Pauley Pavilion.

The Bruins haven't scored 100 points in any of their eight games, but this may be the occasion for Low Alcindor and his playmates to go for a bundle.

For one thing, Alcindor's foe at center for Tulane, Harold Sylvester, is 6-5. Low is that tall when he bends over to tie his shoe laces.

Secondly, Tulane has been beaten five times in 11 outings, an indication that the Green Wave is not among the nation's powers.

Add to these factors UCLA's spotless 43-game record at Pauley Pavilion and you have the ingredients of a romp.

The UCLA athletic department announced Friday that a limited number of tickets will go on sale at the Pauley Pavilion box office tonight.

This will be the final pre-conference game for the Bruins, who travel to Oregon and Oregon State next weekend.

UCLA will be seeking its 25th consecutive victory in a streak that extends back to January of 1968.

The Bruin freshman team faces Antelope Valley College in a 5:45 p.m. preliminary.

Bridge Pairs Winners in L.B. Play

David O. Ashley, of Lakewood, and Roger Carter, of Norwalk, teamed up to win Friday's men's pairs bridge competition at the Lafayette Hotel.

Tournament director Marshal Ketchum said the team of Tom Lesser, of North Hollywood, and Mike Smolen, Los Angeles, took second overall in the men's pair play, third place going to Dr. Lyle W. Chohler and Richard Walsh, both of Los Angeles.

Mary Jane Farrell, of Beverly Hills, and Katherine A. Blanchard, Los Angeles, took first overall in women's pairs. Second went to Dorothy D. Andrews, of Sherman Oaks, and Jennie Nichols, of Glendale.

PATRICIA HARRIS of Rossmore and Ardis Weiser of Long Beach tied with Jane W. Sullivan of Los Angeles and Dorothy O. Bare, West Covina, for third overall.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Christensen, of Sioux City, Iowa, took first place in north-south Jupiter Pairs competition, and Mr. and Mrs. George Werden, of Blythe, won east-west play.

The tournament is held each Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 1 p.m. to midnight.

Show Personalities Slated for Spa's Benefit Opening

Comedian Jonathan Winters will head a list of more than 50 entertainment personalities scheduled to attend the Jan. 11-12 benefit grand opening of the Jack LaLanne European Health Spa, 4443 Candlewood St., Lakewood.

Proceeds from the event, which will be held from noon to 8 p.m. both days and be open to the public, will go to Winters' American Indian Scholar-

Charles Tartella, president of the health spa chain, said the $1-million Lakewood facility is the largest of the 50 establishments in the organization.

Among the celebrities scheduled to make hourly appearances on both dates, Tartella said, are Agnes Moorehead, Donald O'Connor, Ed Begley, Darren McGavin, Martin Miller and Paul Morrow.

BARBERS SELDOM IN A LATHER

The old saying, "Shave and a haircut, two-bits," is not only economically obsolete, but the shave part is almost extinct, according to Dave Perrin, barber at the Top Hat Shop in Lakewood.

BARBER DAVE PERRIN GIVES RARE SHAVE

Dave, who has been in the clip-and-clip business six years, said the number of people seeking a barber shop shave has declined to nearly nil — and most barbers don't feel too bad about it.

It takes almost twice as long to give a shave than a haircut and, with the price about the same, a shave customer can mean a loss to a barber.

"We may go six months without anyone coming in to the shop for a shave," Dave said, stropping a little-used razor.

In the 1,200 hours of schooling it takes to become a barber, barber colleges still teach the art of shaving.

"Even though barbers may not like to give a shave, we have to be ready for the customer who wants one," Dave said. "But while I'm giving a shave, I practice a little psychology. I talk to the customer about the smooth, clean shaves I get from my electric razor. Maybe he'll get the idea." —By Hal Lowe.

Nobel Laureate Offers 'Herod' Work

HEROD AND MARIAMNE. By Par Lagerkvist. Translated from the Swedish by Naomi Walford. Knopf, $4.95

The 1951 Nobel Prize winner for literature, Par Lagerkvist, deals again with the theme that has run through all his previous works — the problem of good and evil, and the search for God. "The Dwarf" and "Barabbas," of the eight works by Lagerkvist which have been translated into English, have won the widest acclaim. "Herod and Mariamne" ranks with these.

It recounts how the tyrant Herod, a man who can trust no one and hence is driven to kill, is smitten with the gentle, selfless Maccabee princess Mariamne, who bears compassion even for the oppressor of her people and they hail her as savior. But her very selflessness eventually affronts this man who must have things by force, and he must destroy her. It is a LITTLE WIDE-AWAKE. An Anthology of Victorian Children's Books and Periodicals. By Leonard de Vries. World, $8.95.

A charming anthology, beautifully put together, of excerpts from children's books and periodicals in Victorian England. The title "Little Wide-Awake," was the name of a popular children's periodical of the last century in England. The stories are surprisingly realistic, compared with children's tales today. There are examples of instruction books, alphabets, and what one tale told with beautiful simplicity.

Deadline Near for VA Filing

CHINESE WRITTEN CHARACTERS: THEIR WIT AND WISDOM. By Rose Quong. Cobble Hill Press, $5.95.

Some years ago Rose Quong delighted readers with her collection of "Chinese Ghost and Love Stories," and again has mined the treasures of China with this book on Chinese writing. Chinese characters have fascinated most people on the signs of restaurants, curio shops, and on laundry tickets.

Rose Quong takes some of the mystery out of these strange strokes in this sampling of several hundred of the thousands of Chinese characters. She shows how they are formed, and thereby illustrates the wisdom and wit of the Chinese as a people, and of their language and views on life.

LORD BEACONSFIELD. By George Brandes. Apollo Editions, $1.95.

In an era when most biographies were mere chronological accounts of the subject's life, the great Danish literary critic and historian Georg Brandes, in 1875, wrote the life of Lord Beaconsfield (Benjamin Disraeli) making it a work of deep psychological insight, probing into the great statesman's motivations, using Disraeli's novels to do so. Disraeli was still alive when the book appeared with its great clarity of style. Brandes' book is a relief from the too many stuffy biographies of the prime minister who was the architect of the British Empire.

LUTHERANS TO SHOOT DOWN 'GRADUATION' IDEA

Major Confirmation Change Is Proposed

A dramatic break with long-time tradition was proposed this week for the nation's Lutheran churches, allowing children to share in the Lord's Supper before they are confirmed as mature members.

Their time of confirmation also would be delayed until age 15 or 16 when they can make a more responsible decision about accepting Christian obligations.

The changes, recommended by a joint commission of this country's three major branches of Lutheranism, would sharply modify practices prevailing throughout most of Protestantism since the 16th century.

Under the long-standing system, young people customarily are confirmed about 12 to 14 after varying amounts of instruction, with eligibility for holy communion withheld from them until that time.

THE PROPOSALS came in the midst of widespread ferment and revisions in Protestantism and Roman Catholicism about the timing for bringing young people into the rites, and held obvious significance to the 13-year-old confirmation tradition of Judaism as well.

"Because many people feel that present confirmation practices are inadequate to meet the needs of today's youth, a groundswell of experimentation has been moving through the churches," the Lutheran report noted.

It was drawn up in four years of work by a 15-member joint commission on the Theology and Practice of Confirmation. The findings are submitted to the 17,000 local congregations of the Lutheran Church in America, the American Lutheran Church and this Lutheran Church-Missouri synod, which have a total membership of 9 million. This is more than 95 per cent of the country's Lutherans.

A 220-page study book and 64-page leader's guide also were distributed with the report. Congregations were advised not to launch the changes before final action on them, anticipated at 1970 and 1971 church conventions.

Confirmation is observed in churches which baptize infants — Episcopal, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Methodist, United Church, as well as Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodox, but not by Baptists and others who don't baptize infants.

It is generally regarded as the ceremony of entry into mature Christian responsibility.

IN IT, a baptized individual personally commits himself to the faith, confirming baptismal vows usually taken for him earlier by his parents, and assumes his full duties in the Christian church.

A problem in the present practice, the Lutheran commission said, is that it blurs the significance of the rite. (Continued Page B-7, Col. 8)

Methodists Try 11 a.m. Discussion

An experimental change in the 11 a.m. worship format will be instituted Sunday at Trinity United Methodist Church of Lakewood, featuring an Adult Forum after a modified service.

The discussion will center around the new Adult Study Literature published by the denomination, which urges all adult members to take part in serious study at least two hours a week. It is described by Rev. Edward G. Hunter, the pastor, as "a serious attempt to apply the tenets of Christianity to man's contemporary situation, particularly from a theological perspective." He invites the public.

A traditional service will be held at 9:30 a.m. in conjunction with the church school hour. Nursery and child care is provided at both. The church is located at the corner of South Street and Dunrobin Avenue.

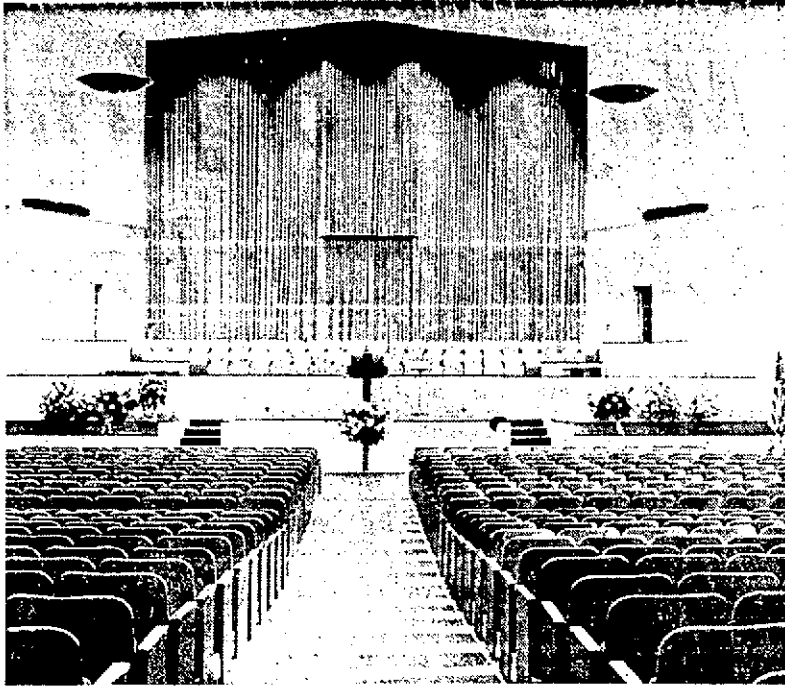

YOUTH RALLY WILL HEAR 'DIMENSIONS'

The New Dimensions, rapidly coming to the fore as singing sensations, will be featured at the monthly Dave Wilkerson Youth Rally Monday, 7:30 p.m. in Melodyland Theater across from Disneyland.

Composed of high school teens from all over Orange County, they have been well received all over the Southland, and recently won top honors in the Knotts Music Talent Contest.

Andre Crouch and the Disciples, former drug addicts now working with Teen Challenge, will be on the program along with The Braillettes, a teen-age trio of blind girls with musical talent. Dave Wilkerson of New York, author of best-selling books on his involvement with the drug world of youth, will speak.

Public is invited and all seats are free.

BELFLOWER DREAM NOW A REALITY

This is the imposing, 15,000-seat sanctuary of Calvary Baptist Church of Bellflower, once a small congregation, now one of Southern California's largest in weekly worship attendance. Balcony in rear is not shown. Church, pastored by Dr. H. Frank Collins, is located at 1722 Clark Ave.

A 'Sinner's' Resolutions

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Editor

New Year's resolutions for a middle-aged sinner: During the coming year, I will not speak rudely or brusquely to any person — such as a waiter or bus driver — who can't answer me in kind without jeopardizing his livelihood. I will try at least once each day to offer an unexpected compliment to someone who can't do me any good.

I will bear with my wife's annoying habits as graciously as I expect her to bear with my minor imperfections.

I will not condemn a whole class of people (students, teen-agers, judges, government workers, doctors, preachers, television newsmen) for the outrageous acts of specific individuals. I will remember that there are students who don't riot, teen-agers who don't smoke pot, government workers who don't loaf, doctors who don't overcharge, preachers who aren't hypocrites, television newsmen who are responsible reporters instead of carnival performers.

I will stop telling young people their music is a clamorous noise and admit it might be at least on a par with such cultural treasures of my youth as "Three Little Fishes in an Itty-Bitty Pool," "The Music Goes Round and Round" and "Mairzy Doats."

Whenever I am tempted to criticize anyone — in public life or among my private acquaintances — I'll remember what Jesus said about God judging us with exactly the same leniency and charity we use in our judgments of others.

When Negroes say harsh things about white people and make extreme demands or threats, I will bear in mind that they have endured great provocation for a long time, I will keep reminding myself that if I were black, I'd probably be pretty angry and obstreperous myself.

I will keep a tight grip on my temper when someone in social conversation expresses what I regard as a stupid opinion — about Vietnam, Religion, pro football or any other subject I take seriously. I will count to ten before replying to give myself time to remember that it is just barely possible he may be right and I may be wrong.

I will order my halo now, just in case I succeed in keeping even half of these resolutions.

PROPERTY MORE PRECIOUS THAN LIFE?

Moral Issues of Arab-Israel Airport Onslaughts Weighed by Theologians

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Assessing the moral issues involved in the airport onslaughts of Arabs and Israelis, several theologians this week pointed out that religious standards always put more value on life than property.

By that criteria alone, they said, the Arab shooting on a loaded plane in Athens that killed one person and wounded another was a greater wrong than the Israeli wrecking of 13 planes in Beirut.

But they emphasized that questions of responsibility and of possible chain-reaction violence that could imperil the world clouded any full evaluation of the ethical implications. They also deplored both actions.

In Judeo-Christian ethics, however, they said that reprisals undertaken for self-defense and not for mere revenge have generally been considered a legitimate recourse of nations, so long as the reprisal did not exceed the scope of the offense precipitating it.

"THE PROPERTY damage was much greater" in Israel's retaliatory strike in Beirut, said Catholic Msgr. John M. Oesterricher, head of the Institute for Judeo-Christian Studies, of South Orange, N.J. "But the earlier Athens violence cost human life."

"And life has greater value than an airplane or any number of airplanes," he added. "It seems to me the Israelis should be credited for the precision and care with which they carried out their operation so no one got hurt."

Rev. Dr. Robert L. Shinn, a Protestant professor of Christian ethics at Union Theological Seminary, also cited that point, adding that the Athens episode was an "act of terrorism" undiscriminating in victims, while the Israeli raid seemed aimed at a country's "economic assets" as an object lesson.

"To the extent that this action was directed against property rather than life, it was not as evil as the sheer terrorism," he said. However, like the others, he shunned passing judgment on the over-all ramifications.

"If every reprisal and counter reprisal is to mark further escalation, the whole thing could get out of hand and endanger everyone," he said. "The normal rules of human behavior have broken down in the situation, and it's tough to evaluate ethically."

Weighing the circumstances, Rabbi Dr. Robert Gordis of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America cited an old rabbinical tale about the building of the ancient Tower of Babel as containing a relevant point.

THE LEGEND says that whenever bricks fell in the tower's construction, loud lamentation broke out, but when workmen fell to their death, the people paid scant heed to it, resulting in God's determination to destroy a project in which property was esteemed more than life — a rebuke to materialist-oriented civilization.

Linking this to the Athens-Beirut incidents, Dr. Gordis said:

"Everyone seems up in arms over the destruction of property, but relatively indifferent to the destruction of life."

"It was a calculated risk, but it's not blind retaliation just to get 'even,'" Msgr. Oesterricher added. He said Judeo-Christian ethics recognizes such action as permissible if it serves a good objective of preventing worse violence.

Dr. Shinn said collective conduct of nations seldom matches the ethical ideals for persons, and that religious realism recognizes that difference.

While the Old Testament admonition for an "eye for an eye" is intended to restrain punishment to the level of the offense as a matter of justice, he said both Old and New Testaments urge a higher personal ethic of love and forgiveness.

"But it doesn't operate between nations," he said. "You can't evaluate national policies by the high ethical standards of the individual."

A Practical Way to Relax Tension

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

Millions of men and women suffer from nervous tension. It impedes their efforts in life, saps their vitality. Chronic tension is a major factor in heart trouble and other serious body ailments. It is even said by some to be the number one killer of our time. But a person can escape the ravages of tension. Even in our hectic day and age there are ways to live relaxed.

Like so many others I too have had trouble with tension. And in the course of learning to handle it I have had some curious experiences. I remember one such incident as vividly as though it were yesterday:

It happened during the Great Depression. The radio newscasts in those days were enough to give anybody nervous jitters. And one night I could not get to sleep. I had listened to the late news just before going to bed, and the things I had heard kept bothering me. I felt restless and tense.

FINALLY I got up and wandered into the living room. I sank exhausted into an easy chair. On a table at my side I noticed a pamphlet — the kind put out by insurance companies. Mechanically I picked it up. I started leafing through it — and came to a drawing which caught my attention.

It showed a big finger pointing to the word YOU. The YOU was repeated several times, growing in bigger and bigger size, spreading across the page. It seemed to hurtle toward the reader, climaxing in a gigantic YOU! And the caption said: "YOU are nervous! YOU are tense! YOU cannot sleep!"

"How in the world," I thought, "did you know!"

I read on. "I am going to tell you some important secrets. Follow these techniques and you can get relief from tension . . .

"First is to relax your body. Sit utterly inert. Yield your body so completely that if the chair were pulled out from under you, you would drop inertly to the floor. Now stretch your feet out as far as you can and the toes even farther, because tension gets into the extremities . . .

"Lift your hand and let it fall upon your knee and rest there like a wet leaf on a log." Ever see anything more relaxed than a wet leaf on a log? "Rest the back of your neck against the back of the chair and let your head roll gently from side to side, to ease the tension that accumulates in the neck muscles . . . And now, with your head still, raise your eyes, look upward, then pretend that there are little weights on your eyelids and let them pull your eyes slowly shut . . ."

I followed these directions and felt a relaxing effect.

I read on. "And now that you have your body relaxed, you must now relax your mind. You can do that by utilizing imagination. Just take off in imagination . . . far away. Go away somewhere, to some tranquil place. Enjoy the beauty and peace of it."

How marvelous imagination can be! In a flash I found myself in the North Woods. I am sitting with my back against a tree. In front of me, a lake. I have fishing tackle and I cast into the lake. The air is full of the aroma of fir, pine and hemlock. Through the tall trees I see great hills wrapped in misty bluish haze rising against the sky.

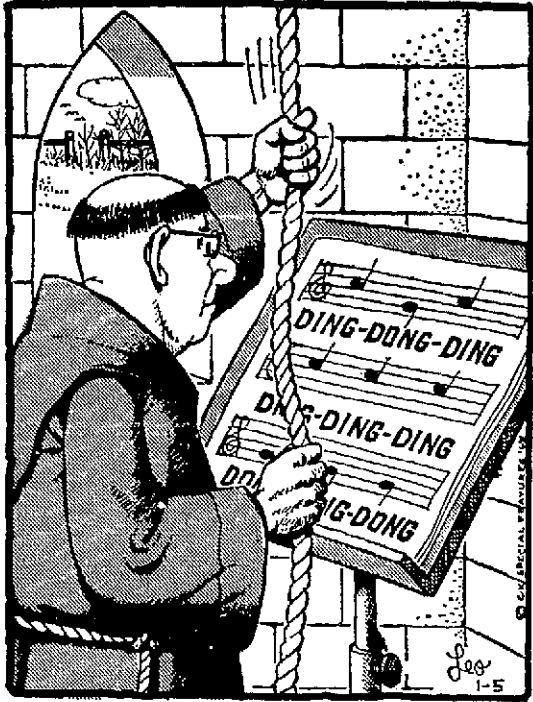

I FELT refreshed in mind and heart. An uplifting calm pervaded my being.

This perceptive pamphlet-writer then rounded out his formula for releasing tension with a final step — for relaxation of the soul. It consisted in saying over to oneself some great peace-giving words, perhaps from the Bible or from some familiar hymn. "Repeat, for example," he suggested, "this affirmation from 'Lead, Kindly Light': 'So long Thy power hath blest me, sure it still will lead me on.'"

Repeating those words, I felt all tension leave me. I went back to bed and slept soundly until morning.

Relaxed living is an art. You have to use techniques that affect the whole of you — your body, mind and soul. And you have to practice them consistently. But it sure pays off.

Byzantine Water Rites Here Sunday

Right Rev. Bishop Meletios, spiritual leader of the Greek Orthodox Church for the Western states, will officiate Sunday at centuries-old rites commemorating the baptism of Christ by John the Baptist in the River Jordan and the blessing of the waters in Long Beach.

The bishop will conduct the Byzantine services starting at 9:30 a.m. with a Hierarchical Liturgy in Municipal Auditorium.

Marking the annual observance of the Feast of Epiphany known as the Feast of Lights, ceremonies at the lagoon behind the auditorium will begin at 12:30 p.m. with a procession and will be highlighted with the immersion of the Holy Cross in the waters. This is the 18th consecutive year that the ancient rites will be re-enacted in Long Beach.

At the lagoon, the Bishop will cast a small, golden wooden cross into the water as a score of young swimmers dive to retrieve it.

Bishop Meletios will be assisted by seven Southland priests, including Rev. Nicholas Billiris of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Long Beach. Taking part in the services will be a 50-voice mixed choir.

Following the services, a Greek Glendi (Celebration) will be held on the church grounds at 1643 Pacific Ave.

Popular Evangelist Back in Lakewood

"Mission Possible," four weeks of Sunday night programs in January sponsored by the Commission on Social Concerns, will get under way Sunday, 7:30 p.m. in California Heights Methodist Church, 3759 Orange Ave., with a program of dancing and singing by a Philippine group, plus the "Young Americans."

The other programs will include a Youth Night, local social concerns, and Athletics for Christ, stressing brotherhood between Negro and white.

It's Not Really Over; Baptists at S.F. State

By LES RODNEY

This may come as news to some, with the trees carted away along with the garbage, the street lights dismantled, and that gaudy blouse quietly exchanged for a better-fitting, workaday model. But the Christmas season is NOT over. There are two more days to go.

On the actual church calendar, the four weeks preceding Dec. 25th belong to the Advent season, but "Christmastide" begins with the big day, and lasts 12 more. (Hence the old English song about "The 12 Days of Christmas.")

Of the holiday period, "how good it was to see so many of our college students and service people who are normally away from home during the year," and continued "One of my great joys is to sense the affection with which these young people of ours hold their church. They want to be here when they come home for the holidays, and there is a genuineness about the fellowship . . ."

Which positive note, of course, could be repeated at other Long Beach area churches and synagogues.

* * * * *

EVANGELIST Billy Graham says his second New York City crusade, set for Madison Square Garden June 13-22, will concentrate on winning young people. "I've pretty much given up on the older generation," he says. He doesn't mean that literally, but in a broad, historic sense.

Biola Concert

Featuring a sacred concert by "The Caravan Singers," Biola College of La Mirada will present the final concert of the third annual series of Sunday Afternoon Musicals on Sunday at 3 p.m. The 90-minute program will be held in the music recital hall on the 75-acre campus.

cance of baptism, which is the basic initiation into Christianity, and also, it suggests a form of "graduation" from Christian study.

The inevitable result is "dropouts from further educational work," the commission said, adding, "The whole notion that confirmation is any kind of graduation must be shot down."

To do that, the commission proposed the baptized children be admitted to communion as soon as they can appreciate its meaning, at about the fifth grade level, age 10 or 11, and that confirmation be delayed until the tenth grade, age 15 or 16, with three years of instruction before then.

At that older stage, the report said, "most youths have found an emotional perspective" and "intellectual capacities for thinking and reasoning" enabling them to make a sounder decision about identifying with the Christian community.

In the current ferment over confirmation, some Episcopal and Lutheran congregations, acting individually, already have started admitting children to communion prior to confirmation. Roman Catholicism has long done so, but in some cases lately, has pushed the communion age back from 7 to as early as 5.

Bishop Fulton J. Sheen of Rochester recently raised the age of confirmation from 12 to high school graduation time — later even than the Lutherans propose.

Experts Have Fun Ignoring TV Set

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Around midnight on New Year's Eve, sitting in front of the television set, I was considering that the year to start the new TV year was to relax and enjoy it.

Haven't I been told often enough by public relations people in the industry that I take it too seriously? "Relax, have fun."

It was while reading an article in "Saturday Review" by the Rev. Anthony Schillaci of Fordham University that I realized why I wasn't having fun. I just don't know how to watch television.

FATHER SCHILLACI'S article is on "Film as Environment" one of a number in the magazine on motion pictures.

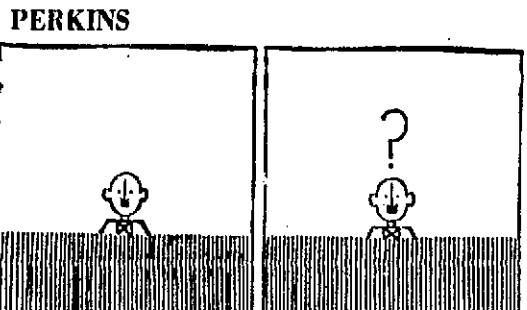

He says:

"... When television brought the image into the living room, people gave it 'movie attention,' hushing everyone who entered the sacred presence of the tube as they would a film patron who talked during a movie. One was not allowed to speak, even during commercials. It took post-literate man to teach us how to use television as environment, as a moving image on the wall to which one may give total or peripheral attention as he wishes. The child who had TV as a baby-sitter does not turn off all his senses, but walks about the room carrying on a multiplicity of actions and relationships, his attention a special reward for the cleverness of the pitchman, or the skill of the artist ..."

AND ALL the time I'd been concentrating on what's been going on. No wonder I miss the fun of it all. Now, if I had known all this, say on New Year's Eve, when I was watching Johnny Carson, I would have enjoyed the show tremendously. I didn't, so I found myself very depressed by the goings on.

I should not, for instance, have been paying any attention when Carson called attention to the

Prostitute Roles Still Have Virtues for Young Actress

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Time was when an ambitious actress had only to land a role as a prostitute to assure herself a nomination for an Oscar and a long career in movies.

Especially if the harlot had a heart of gold.

What with lesbian themes, nudity, illicit love affairs, common-law marriages and other sex-oriented themes, a prostitute now is a stock character equivalent to the detective or sheriff.

Sharon Farrelly, a lovely actress of the old school, moved to Hollywood and roles with Kirk Douglas in "A Lovely Way to Die," Jim Garner in "The Little Sister" and currently with Steve McQueen in the "The Reivers."

Sharon is bright, ambitious and alert to the fact that fallen women roles have launched more careers than Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.

"I play a prostitute in 'The Reivers,' but I had to fight to get the part," Sharon said.

But how does a sweet young thing from Sioux City acquaint herself with mannerisms, character traits and morals of a shady lady.

movies turn on the "now" set notes:

"... what moves them must have the pace, novelty, style and spontaneity of a television commercial ..."

This sounds pretty good in theory, so I paid attention to some commercials to check "pace, novelty," etc.

All I can say is that Father Schillaci travels in a different commercial world than I do.

NEW FIRE CHIEF T. J. RIZZO

ONLY AN INCH FROM FORCE

New Fire Chief Almost a Policeman

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

If Tullio J. Rizzo were an inch taller, he might be Long Beach's chief of police today instead of its fire chief.

Rizzo first went to work for the city in 1940 as a typist-clerk. After a brief stint in the office of the tax collector, he transferred to the Police Department.

He was all set to take the examination for patrolman when the city raised the minimum-height requirement to 5 feet 10 inches. Rizzo was only 5 feet 9.

So, he took the examination for fireman instead.

Rizzo became a fireman June 1, 1942, and climbed steadily through the ranks until he was assistant fire chief, to which he was appointed Aug. 1, 1961.

When Fire Chief Leonard V. Foster retired Jan. 1, Rizzo was named to succeed him.

By another twist of fate, Chief Rizzo was born in Italy and got married, fully intending to return to Italy even though he was an American citizen.

His father had emigrated to the United States at the age of 18 to seek new opportunities. When he made enough money to establish a family, he went back to Italy.

However, World War I broke out, and the senior

Rizzo, although he was an American citizen, was forced into the Italian Army. It took 14 months to straighten out the situation, and clear the way for the Rizzo clan to come to the United States.

Chief Rizzo served a hitch in the U.S. Navy after graduating from high school in Utica, N.Y.

The new fire chief has taken numerous courses in fire administration, fire prevention and suppression and civil defense since joining the Long Beach department. He is a past president and past secretary of the Federated Fire Fighters of California.

He is chairman of the Fire Science Advisory Board at Long Beach City College, and a member of similar boards at Harbor, Compton and Cerritos colleges.

Chief Rizzo is married, and he and his wife, Ruth, have five children and seven grandchildren.

Course Warns Fifth Graders About Drugs

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A classroom course designed to warn fifth graders of narcotics and dangerous drugs they may be exposed to in junior high school will begin this month in four Southland school districts.

The course, designed to slow the alarming rise in use of marijuana and other drugs in junior high schools, will be given in the ABC, Bellflower, Downey and Norwalk-La Mirada districts.

Plans for the course began with the Community Services Citizens' Advisory Committee of Cerritos College, which identifies, studies and acts on community problems.

Aid from the schools and county community services turned the idea into reality.

The course, titled "Operation Impact Day

Plus Two," was formally drawn up by a special curriculum committee in the four school districts, all served by Cerritos College.

Pilot programs were held in several fifth grade classrooms in December.

Mrs. Robert Rabens, chairman of the action group's civic responsibility committee, said one day is spent in drug education, then course material is discussed for two weeks.

The action group has also sponsored adult education panels and several workshops on dangerous drugs and narcotics.

An adult education panel discussion held at Cerritos college on dangerous drugs was attended by 3,000 persons.

Six series of five workshops on drugs were held for school personnel.

MOP-UP AT CHARRED HOUSE

Long Beach firemen search for "hot spots" in unoccupied house at 1121 Obispo Ave., destroyed in a 4:25 p.m. fire which investigators say may have been started by firebugs, in the dwelling owned by Nelson F. Teran, 1932 Bellflower Blvd., which was up for sale. Firemen said there was no direct evidence of arson, but they were unable to find any other cause for the blaze.

None Exempt to City Meters

There is no practical way of giving residents adjacent to parking-meter zones some sort of permit exempting them from parking citations, according to City Manager John R. Mansell.

Furthermore, Mansell said, his office was unable to find any city which has any such parking-permit system.

As a result, Mansell will recommend Monday that the City Council's ordinance committee merely receive and file his report.

The matter came before the ordinance committee last April when Mrs. Hazel Coleman, 35 Elm Ave., wrote a request that people in homes or apartments fronting on streets with parking meters be given special permits to disregard the meters.

Mrs. Coleman said she understood the cities of Newport Beach and Pasadena had some such system, but Mansell said this is not correct.

Pasadena has no such system, Mansell said, and Newport Beach's permits, which cost $10 a year, apply only to city-owned parking lots and about half of the space in the city-owned center-divider of Balboa Boulevard.

Mansell said his office is "sympathetic" with the problem described by Mrs. Coleman, but pointed out her apartment has 48 units, and there are only three parking spaces at the curb.

Mansell pointed out the City Council, over the years, has attempted to resolve the problem by increasing the required off-street parking for new buildings.

"We are of the opinion that the most effective way of permanently relieving surface street parking congestion is by the provision of adequate off-street parking facilities," Mansell said.

Police to Honor 17 for Heroics

Five police officers and 12 civilians will be honored for heroic deeds at Long Beach's first annual Police Awards Luncheon Jan. 14 at the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St.

Two officers, Patrolmen Wayne Clark and James Fontaine, will receive the Police Department's highest award — the Medal of Valor — for nabbing two bank robbery suspects after a gunfight.

Officers Gilbert Quinonez, Ronald Nelson and Robert Bell will receive Class "A" Meritorious Awards and the 12 civilians will be awarded Certificates of Community Service.

"Their actions clearly refute the contention that passersby are unwilling to become involved in potentially dangerous occurrences where police officers or fellow citizens need assistance," Police Chief William J. Mooney said.

John Barrett, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will recount the heroic deeds of the 17 during the luncheon presentation.

Tickets can be purchased from the Independent Insurance Agents of Long Beach, co-sponsors of the awards.

DEPUTY EXAMINES TIRE IRON THAT CRACKED HIS HELMET Shot And Killed Theft Suspect As He Fled After Attack

Deputy Kills Man After Being Hit With a Tire Iron

By JIM HYNES
Staff Writer

A Paramount mechanic suspected of altering stolen cars for resale was shot and killed by a sheriff's deputy Friday after cracking the lawman's helmet with a tire iron, detectives said.

Lester Goodrich, 40, of 4243 E. Compton Blvd., was dead on arrival at Physicians and Surgeons Hospital after Deputy Robert Ewen shot him in the abdomen as he fled a garage at 6617 Compton Blvd.

Ewen fired five shots at Goodrich during their struggle, according to Sgt. John Brady, sheriff's homicide detail. He said Goodrich struck Ewen with the tire iron when the deputy placed him under arrest.

struck Ewen's helmet. The deputy's right hand was badly bruised when he threw it up to ward off the blow.

When Goodrich swung again, Ewen shot him in the hand, but the suspect ducked behind a car.

Deputy Ewen said he thought Goodrich was reaching for a gun and fired three more times, Brady said. Then, as the suspect fled through a door, the deputy fired the fatal shot.

Innocence Claimed in Store Fire

A 20-year-old San Pedro woman pleaded innocent Friday to arson and burglary charges filed against her following a December fire in a downtown Long Beach department store.

Trial for Sylvia Monsibias was set for Feb. 19, by Superior Court Judge Raymond Choate.

The suspect, police said, was arrested Dec. 2, shortly after a series of small fires broke out in the J. J. Newberry store, 433 Pine Ave., triggering the alarm and sprinkler systems and alerting police.

Miss Monsibias was jailed after investigating officers discovered Newberry labels on clothing in her possession when she was taken into custody about a block from the store.

Judge Hutton Named to L.B. Court Post

Judge Hampton Hutton, of Huntington Beach, was named Friday as the new jurist for Department F of Long Beach Superior Court.

He replaces Judge John L. Donellan who earlier transferred to the new Norwalk Court District.

Judge Hutton was appointed to the bench six months ago, and has handled the criminal calendar in Department 118, Los Angeles Superior Court, since that time.

Prior to his judicial appointment, he was in private practice in Los Angeles for 30 years with the firm of Von Herzen, Hutton, Catlin and Reinjohn.

A native of Los Angeles, the 57-year-old jurist served as secretary of Lawyers Club of Los Angeles County, and has been active in the Los Angeles and American Bar associates as well as the California Trial Lawyers Association.

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today! This is the year of personal effort, achievement, testing, and learning. You will have to struggle to achieve both sides: mental. Cultivate the habit of regular meditation to help avoid the stress of the day. You will be often skilled in statistics, economics, and the sciences.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Share in the community's rituals, then pursue hobbies and interests. Your friends and family are not too unusual. Tonight scan your calendar.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Under the calm, people are easily restoring frayed nerves. You will be a good listener. Be patient. Drift, nana.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It may seem that nobody is going anywhere or doing anything. Let people move. Let your mind move. Be patient. Drift, nana. Somewhat lonely.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): The tendency is for emotion. Fun and surprises are in the air. You will be able to get along with just a little expression of feelings.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Waste no time in the morning. You will be able to get along with just a little expression of feelings.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 21): Take care in the morning. You will be able to get along with just a little expression of feelings.

LIBRA (Sept. 22-Oct. 21): Give your time to the morning. You will be able to get along with just a little expression of feelings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22-Nov. 21): Your sense of time is not the same. You will be able to get along with just a little expression of feelings.

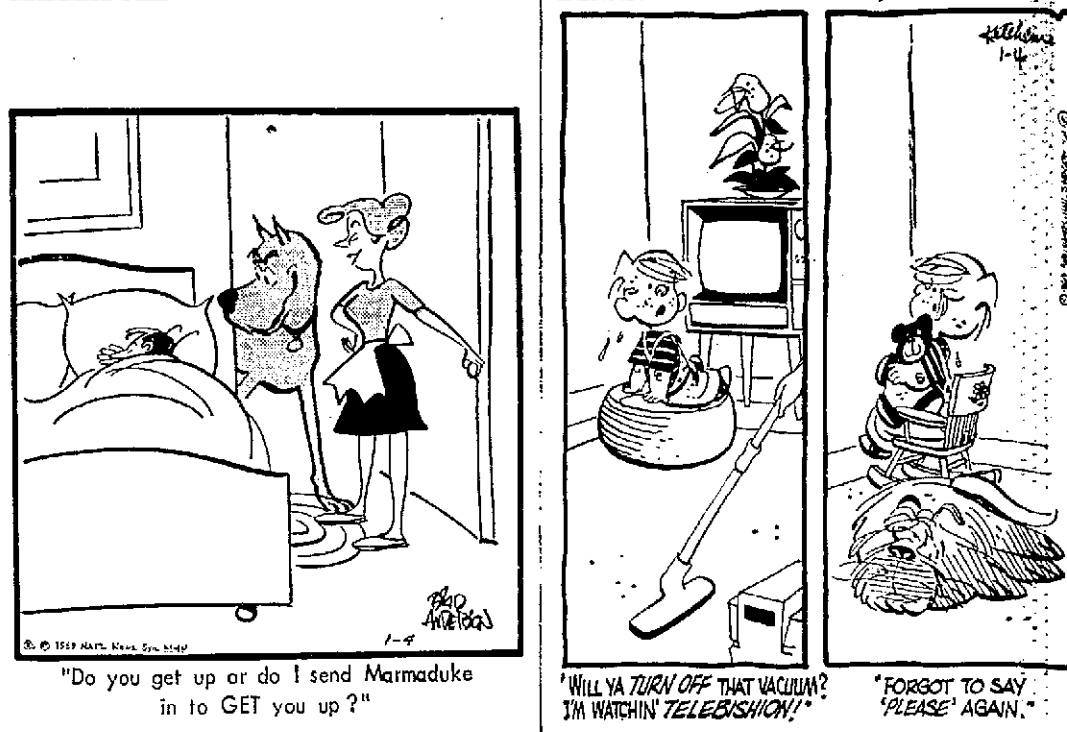

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Think of the morning. You will be able to get along with just a little expression of feelings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The opportunity to adjust to new conditions is in the air. You will be able to get along with just a little expression of feelings.

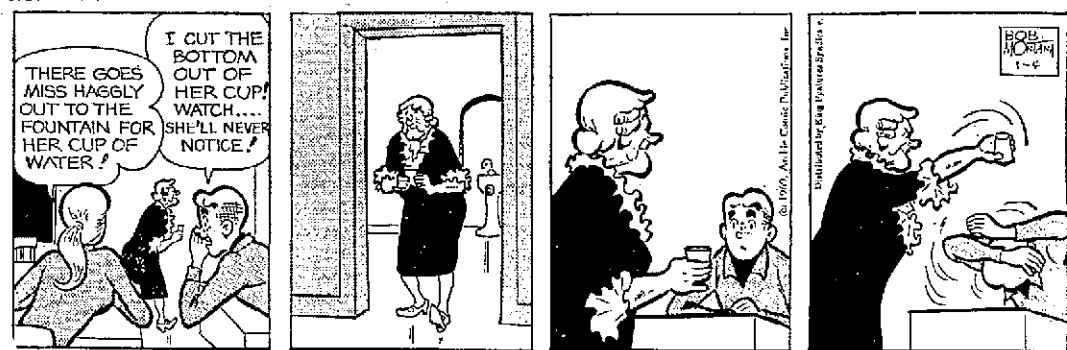

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Go to the morning. You will be able to get along with just a little expression of feelings.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): This is the morning. You will be able to get along with just a little expression of feelings.

Couple Charged With Selling Son

A member of the Hell's Angels motorcycle club and an 18-year-old girl friend were arraigned in Los Angeles superior court Friday on a charge of selling their 4-month-old son for $700.

Dore Anthony De Madona, 29, and Mrs. Sarah Jane Stewart, 18, were ordered by Judge William B. Keene to return to court for plea Thursday. They were in custody in lieu of $6,250 bail.

They are accused of selling Anthony Lee Stewart to the William Daljan family, Glendale, to get money to buy a motorcycle and take a trip to Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., last October.

Police were called to the Daljan home last month to investigate a report of a disturbance.

Daljan, 46, told officers that De Madona and Mrs. Stewart had returned to seek more money from the childless couple.

The baby, fathered by De Madona, was removed from the home by authorities and taken to McLaren Hall in El Monte.

The child's mother reportedly is seeking a divorce from her service man husband.

Big Bear Fire Which Killed 3 Held Accidental

A cabin fire at Big Bear Lake which burned three Orange County teen-agers to death was declared "presumably accidental" by arson investigators Friday.

Two other teen-agers arrested on misdemeanor violations after fleeing the blaze were released.

Sgt. Henry Mizysak of the San Bernardino County sheriff's office arson detail said preliminary sifting of the ruins of the small, wood frame cabin indicated the Thursday morning blaze was ignited by a cigarette dropped on a living-room couch.

Investigators said it appeared the fire broke out while the youths were asleep after a drinking party.

Killed in the blaze were Larry L. Golden, 18, of 739 N. Philadelphia St., Anaheim; Donald L. Temple, 21, of 535 N. Lemon St., Anaheim; and Craig Beckmeyer, 18, of 16594 Don Drive, Huntington Beach.

Bruce A. Pina, 18, of Anaheim, was freed on his own recognizance pending arraignment for charges of drunkenness and interfering with a fireman.

The other youth, Kevin M. Woodson, 17, of Westminster, was released to his parents to await juvenile court proceedings against him for lack of parental supervision.

Ex-L.B. Crusade Head Dies

Private services were pending Friday for Wayne Stewart, former Long Beach civic leader and general manager of the local United Way for 16 years.

Stewart, past manager of Long Beach's National City Bus Co., died Thursday in a San Diego convalescent home at 73.

He retired from his post with the United Way and Community Chest in 1964, but continued to hold advisory posts in both charity organizations.

Stewart became president of Community Chest during World War II and continued in top executive positions as that organization became United Way and then United Crusade.

"HE SUPPLIED continuity of sound management over the years that was an important factor in making the principle of united campaigns effective here," the Independent, Press-Telegram editorialized after his 1964 retirement.

Besides serving as general manager of the charity organizations and the city bus company, Stewart was a real estate and insurance broker and property manager.

He was president of the Long Beach chapter of the National Safety Council and the YMCA while holding several Chamber of Commerce positions. Stewart was district governor of the Rotary Club.

He is survived by his wife, Dayneen, and a son, Deane.

MINIBUS LOSES IN A CRUNCH

Motorist Alfred Delgado, 30, of Pico Rivera, escaped with painful but non-serious injuries Friday morning when his vehicle collided with a freight train locomotive on Artesia Boulevard, near Cherry Avenue. Minibus was mauled about 100 yards downtrack before the dust and debris settled, according to Police Officer Robert Titus, who said several other drivers had bypassed a flashing crossing signal without mishap before the Delgado vehicle was rammed.

San Pedro Man Badly Hurt as Auto Plunges 40 Feet

Jack Reynolds Smith, 21, of 985 10th St., San Pedro, was in critical condition at Harbor General Hospital late Friday after his car rammed through a guard rail and plunged 40 feet over a Pt. Fermin cliff at Pacific Avenue.

Another San Pedro man, Bruce R. Hayes, required only minor medical attention after his auto crashed over the side of Fisherman's Wharf and sank to the murky bottom 30 feet below the water's surface.

Hayes, 24, of 1311 Model Place, was treated at San Pedro Community Hospital and then released after he managed to escape from his vehicle through a window early Friday and swim to the surface.

A crew of 12 firemen worked 20 minutes to free Smith from the twisted wreckage of his car after it tore through four 8x8-inch wood posts, ripped out 60 feet of heavy steel cable and opened a wide swath through an equal length of chain link fence before plunging over the cliff late Thursday.

The auto wedged into a small gully — saving Smith from a 150-foot drop to the beach below and probable death.

While the rescue operation was in progress, scores of firemen scoured the area for signs of other victims. No others were found, and authorities said they believed Smith was alone at the time of the accident.

Witnesses told police they heard the car racing full speed toward the dead end of Pacific Avenue and then slam through the barriers.

MAN ON FREEWAY KILLED

A motorist attempting to avoid hitting an unconscious man lying in a fast lane of the Harbor Freeway triggered a three-car crash Friday.

The unidentified man, who apparently was unconscious before being hit, was run over and killed. He was about 65, the Los Angeles County coroner's office reported.

Police said Angelo Margaros, 40, Los Angeles, braked to avoid hitting the man on the south-bound freeway at Ninth Street about 6:30 a.m.

A car driven by George E. Thomas, 50, a police photographer, collided with the first automobile. A third car driven by Gabriel Robles, 56, of Los Angeles, rammed Thomas' vehicle. The Thomas and Robles cars continued and ran over the "John Doe."

Pike-Bonowsky Sex-Ethics Debate Drives Antagonists to Compromise

By LES RODNEY
Religion Editor

An overflow crowd of more than 1,000 at the University of California, Santa Barbara, heard sexual morality debated by two opposing Christian personalities Friday night.

The largely youthful crowd reserved its greatest applause for controversial former Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, who contented no situation could be prejudged until all the relevant facts were known.

Also receiving strong applause was Dr. William S. Bonowsky, 33-year-old executive vice president of Pepperdine College of Los Angeles, who argued the need for explicit moral guidelines.

In the sometimes-heated, sometimes-hilarious exchange, both men appeared to yield some points and move toward a central position.

plause when he stated "Ethical decisions are never easy to make. We, nonetheless, live in a world that must be undergirded by moral restraints."

He denied humanity has advanced to the stage where individuals are capable of deciding what is right or wrong.

HIE DREW appreciative laughter when he said, "Every couple thinks it is exceptional. It thinks its love is a true love. We know that they cannot always be right."

A strong note in student questioning was the complaint everyone seemed to hang on to sex, when far greater questions of morality, such as the Vietnam war and the racial question, are the real problems confronting young people today.

Lakewood Rotary Picks Rev. Plastow

Rev. Robert Plastow, pastor of the Community Methodist Church, has been elected president of the Lakewood Rotary Club.

Rev. Plastow, who has been a member of the club for the past five years, will be a delegate to the Rotary International Convention in Hawaii in May.

Services at 2 p.m. Monday for Emma Irene Workman

Funeral services will be held Monday for Mrs. Emma Irene Workman, 92, pioneer religious leader and widow of the late Long Beach City Councilman, George Workman.

Rites are set for 2 p.m. at Patterson & Snively Mortuary, 555 Locust Ave., and will be followed by burial in Sunnyside Cemetery.

Mrs. Workman, who died Thursday in a San Pedro convalescent hospital, is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mina Gibson, wife of Los Angeles City Councilman John S. Gibson, two granddaughters and 10 great-grandchildren.

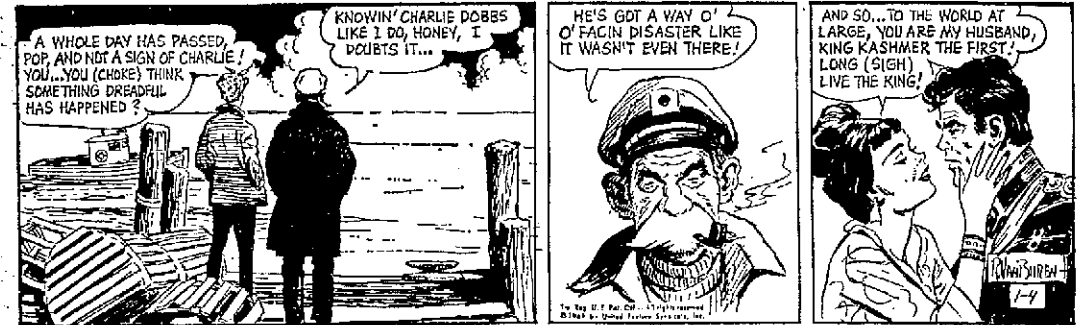

Chamber Elects at Gardens

George La Croix, a locksmith, has been elected 1969 president of the Hawaiian Gardens Chamber of Commerce.

The vice president-elect is Tim Hastings. Bill Sonborn will serve as treasurer and Marion Blevins is the 1969 secretary.

The new officers will be installed during banquet ceremonies at Mike's New Restaurant, Norwalk Boulevard and Carson Street, at 7 p.m. on Jan. 29. Gale Brandon, local publisher, will be master of ceremonies.

Navy Plane Crashes in Mono Lake

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — A Navy jet crashed on the north shore of Mono Lake in the Sierra Nevada Friday killing the pilot, a veteran combat flier back from Vietnam.

The single-seat, A7B Corsair II was based at Le-moine Naval Air Station. The Navy said Lt. John H. James, 25, Euclid, Ohio, was on a training mission when the crash occurred.

The wreckage of the light attack plane was found partly in the water and partly on the shore, the Mono County Sheriff's office said. The lake, one of the largest in the Sierra, is located at an elevation of 6,409 feet.
